Portraits of the Artist in "A Clockwork Orange" 2003

this book forms part of the multi disciplinary studies in ethics series from liverpool hope university it explores the slipperiness of ethics as a concept and demonstrates the multiplicity of intellectual inquiry within contemporary film studies at first glance ethics is not necessarily a subject conventionally associated with film film is often regarded as a form of lowbrow popular culture either offering bland entertainment or deliberately setting out to shock or more cynically generate box office revenue through gratuitous inclusion of sex and violence certainly there have always been a minority of films based on the stereotypically ethical subject of religion but these have often generated the most controversy from the studio system decree that it was blasphemous to represent the corporeal body of christ to the furore surrounding martin scorsese s the last temptation of christ 1988 this book shows that from the silent era to the present day film has been inherently concerned with ethical issues in this light the definition of ethics that informs the volume and is taken as the starting point of each of the chapters is the notion of personal or institutional motivation most usually because a character or industry figure makes a decision or choice based on their own moral or ethical code once this is defined the ethical dimension to films is immediately evident this book takes as its central theme the difficulty of decisions refracted through personal ethical codes and thus recognises that what counts as ethics or morality is always subjective some of the chapters explore films which take conventionally good ethical standpoints others investigate why bad decisions were made at least one explores the celebration of practices invoking popular disgust but all the contributions study ethical decisions within film that represent the strongly felt convictions of those involved and moreover address aspects of filmmaking which force the spectator to be an active and reciprocal participant in the creation of meaning thus implicitly acknowledging that ethics are subjective and in perpetual flux rather than fixed objective truths seminar paper from the year 2004 in the subject american studies literature grade 1 0 a martin luther university anglistik und amerikanistik course a clockwork orange language english abstract this paper is an attempt at analysing the religious aspects of a clockwork orange in order to gain an understanding of burriss message of freedom it will be argued that his novel is a religious warning and an insistent call to the individual reader and the christian church freedom is permanently threatened and freedom can only be obtained when the freedom of moral choice is guaranteed in this paper the examination of religious themes and a comparative analysis serve as tools to outline the religious aspects of a clockwork orange in the novel the philosophical and religious problems that are inherent in alex s spiritual fall and rise clearly demonstrate that the christian faith and the bible inspired burriss work these problems can be categorised into four major themes freedom and bondage violence and suffering the relationship between man and god and innocence and guilt the implication of these themes in a clockwork orange will be discussed in the first part of this paper however the reference to religion and christianity in a clockwork orange is not confined to these general themes on another and more specific level the story of alex can be viewed as an analogy to the life of jesus christ as it is narrated in the bible this is why the second part of this paper a comparative analysis of these two narratives will be provided the three major connections that will be discussed are the structure of the alex s concept of thinking in comparison with the teachings of christ the common experience of betrayal and interrogation and the application of alex s story to the passion of the christ they will be supplemented by a fourth argument that is not strictly related to the biblical narrative but to christian history after the death of jesus the parallels between alex s restoration and that of the christian community in the fourth century for this purpose biblical and christian terms like disciples and glad tidings will be used occasionally in reference to alex this terminological transfer does not imply that alex s persuasions are identical with those of christ as a matter of fact the deeds and intentions of the two figures are rather contrary in terms of their moral impetus therefore it is not the moral differences but the structural similarities which will be analysed stanley kubrick had a great talent for creating memorable images such as his famous jump cut from a bone tossed into the prehistoric sky to a spaceship orbiting the earth in 2001 like the composer of a great symphony kubrick also had the ability to draw his memorable moments into a lyrical whole balancing harmony with discord he kept viewers on edge by constantly shifting relationships among the dramatic elements in his movies the results often confounded expectations and provoked controversy right up through eyes wide shut the last film of his life this book is an intensive scene by scene analysis of kubrick's most mature work seven meticulously wrought films from dr strangelove to eyes wide shut in these films kubrick dramatized the complexity and mutability of the human struggle in settings so diverse that some critics have failed to see the common threads rasmussen traces those threads and reveals the always shifting always memorable always passionately rendered pattern instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here music and literature have often been interconnected through the centuries this is an intellectual and spiritual marriage between two artistic worlds which are both part of a creative system that lends voice to one another as this book argues while music is one single form of expression literature can be expressed in the form of either poetry or prose however they find their apotheosis their most natural relationship when poetry is set to music especially when it is lyrical and has similar phrasing and rhythms to music the book thus shows that music offers an additional perspective to literature while the latter gives words to the feelings that the former arouses as such though both can stand alone if put together they form a complementary entity that everybody can enjoy

although stanley kubrick adapted novels and short stories his films deviate in notable ways from the source material in particular since 2001 a space odyssey 1968 his films seem to definitively exploit all cinematic techniques embodying a compelling visual and aural experience but as author elisa pezzotta contends it is for these reasons that his cinema becomes the supreme embodiment of the sublime fruitful encounter between the two arts and simultaneously of their independence stanley kubrick's last six adaptations 2001 a space odyssey a clockwork orange 1971 barry lyndon 1975 the shining 1980 full metal jacket 1987 and eyes wide shut 1999 are characterized by certain structural and stylistic patterns these features help to draw conclusions about the role of kubrick in the history of cinema about his role as an adapter and more generally about the art of cinematic adaptations the structural and stylistic patterns that characterize kubrick adaptations seem to criticize scientific reasoning causality and traditional semantics in the history of cinema kubrick can be considered a modernist auteur in particular he can be regarded as an heir of the modernist avant garde of the 1920s however author elisa pezzotta concludes that unlike his predecessors kubrick creates a cinema not only centered on the ontology of the medium but on the staging of sublime new experiences in the course of fifty years director stanley kubrick produced some of the most haunting and indelible images on film his films touch on a wide range of topics rife with questions about human life behavior and emotions love and sex war crime madness social conditioning and technology within this great variety of subject matter kubrick examines different sides of reality and unifies them into a rich philosophical vision that is similar to existentialism perhaps more than any other philosophical concept existentialism the belief that philosophical truth has meaning only if it is chosen by the individual has come down from the ivory tower to influence popular culture at large in virtually all of kubrick's films the protagonist finds himself or herself in opposition to a hard and uncaring world whether the conflict arises in the natural world or in human institutions kubrick's war films fear and desire paths of glory dr strangelove and full metal jacket examine how humans deal with their worst fears especially the fear of death when facing the absurdity of war full metal jacket portrays a world of physical and moral change with an environment in continual flux in which attempting to impose order can be dangerous the film explores the tragic consequences of an unbending moral code in a constantly changing universe essays in the volume examine kubrick's interest in morality and fate revealing a stoic philosophy at the center of many of his films several of the contributors find his oeuvre to be characterized by skepticism irony and unfettered hedonism in such films as a clockwork orange and 2001 a space odyssey kubrick confronts the notion that we will struggle against our own scientific and technological innovations kubrick's films about the future posit that an active form of nihilism will allow humans to accept the emptiness of the world and push beyond it to form a free and creative view of humanity taken together the essays in the philosophy of stanley kubrick are an engaging look at the director's stark vision of a constantly changing moral and physical universe they promise to add depth and complexity to the interpretation of kubrick's signature films
