resources are facing increasing pressure from consuming and contaminating activities there is a growing awareness that the quantitative and qualitative preservation of groundwater resources is a global need not only to safeguard their future use for public supply and irrigation but also to protect those ecosystems that depend partial key issues context peru remains one of the best performing economies in latin america with solid macroeconomic fundamentals strong policy frameworks and visible gains in poverty reduction like most of the region peru faced a challenging external environment in 2014 external shocks were compounded by domestic supply disruptions and a drop in subnational public investment and growth decelerated sharply headline inflation was slightly above the upper band of the central bank s bcrp target range due to supply shocks but expectations remained well anchored the external current account deficit declined slightly despite weaker external conditions outlook and risks growth is expected to recover in 2015 and over the medium term contingent on production at new mines approaching capacity priority infrastructure projects advancing and shocks to terms of trade fading however downside risks dominate externally these include a surge in global financial volatility further dollar appreciation or lower commodity prices and external demand domestic downside risks include weaker investment uncertainties surrounding 2016 presidential elections and persistent social conflicts a faster unwinding of supply shocks or a more complete pass through of lower food and fuel global prices constitute upside risks near term policy mix the policy mix is broadly adequate to support the recovery and maintain macroeconomic stability the immediate priority is expediting the execution of public investment in line with government plans while avoiding increases in non priority current spending monetary policy should remain responsive to inflation expectations and external developments exchange rate flexibility should be the main line of defense against any additional external pressures the timely use of macro prudential tools and ongoing de dollarization efforts should further solidify financial stability medium term prospects with the end of the commodity boom a push to deepen structural reforms will be necessary to sustain potential growth and diversify the economy revenue losses would need to be offset to finance structural reforms investment and inclusion along a gradual fiscal consolidation path streamlining legal requirements and red tape is rightly a government reform priority and the ambitious education reform and inclusion policies should stay their course within the framework of fiscal discipline persevering with labor market reform remains important encyclopaedic dictionary of textile terms is a reference dictionary with a short explanation of textile terms in spinning weaving processing and garmenting fields the book is meant for all textile related personae especially for textile students textile processors and garmenting technicians it will be an asset for merchandisers and buying offices for quick reference it is september 2017 the 7 full papers and 9 short papers presented together with 6 best of the labs papers were carefully reviewed and selected from 38 submissions in addition this volume contains the results of 10 benchmarking labs reporting their year long activities in overview talks and lab sessions the papers address all aspects of information access in any modality and language and cover a broad range of topics in the field of multilingual and multimodal information access evaluation the annual colloquium on information retrieval research provides an opportunity for both new and established researchers to present papers describing work in progress or nal results this colloquium was established by the bcs irsg b tish computer society information retrieval specialist group and named the annual colloquium on information retrieval research recently the location of the colloquium has alternated between the united kingdom and continental europe to re ect the growing european orientation of the event the colloquium was renamed european annual colloquium on information retrieval research from 2001 since the inception of the colloquium in 1979 the event has been hosted in the city of glasgow on four separate occasions however this was the rst time that the organization of the colloquium had been jointly undertaken by three separate computer and information science departments an indication of the collaborative nature and diversity of ir research within the universities of the west of scotland the organizers of ecir 2002 saw a sharp increase in the number of go quality submissions in answer to the call for papers over previous years and as such 52 submitted papers were each allocated 3 members of the program committee for double blind review of the manuscripts a total of 23 papers were eventually selected for oral presentation at the colloquium in glasgow which gave an acceptance rate of less than 45 and ensured a very high standard of the
