2016-03-22 the pace of fiction redefines the literary history of the novel by analyzing its most elaborate feature its pace it moves from the rise of the novel to realism and modernism it starts by tracing the evolution of two narrative units scenes shown slowly and summaries told swiftly these units emerge from the conflict of epic and drama gain shape in the commentaries of fielding and goethe and become dynamically opposed in nineteenth century realism in Middlemarch they rotate in regular sequence summaries move swiftly until scenes slow them down scenes play out dramatically until summaries sweep them forward their movement imitates the conflict of fate and free will over the course of the nineteenth century however scenic impulses overtake summary storytelling the reader sees the tendency already in Austen's dialogues Hawthorne's tableaux or Balzac's battering drama and finds it in Jane Eyre's placement of summaries in private scenes when Flaubert extends scenic vividness to all of his summaries and when Henry James subordinates his summaries to scenic consciousness the extreme pressure of scene upon summary brings the opposition of realist pacing to collapse but other oppositions arise in the modernisms that follow in the alternation of stasis and kinesis of drifting thoughts and everyday actions of stories and acts of storytelling in Proust Joyce Woolf Mann Hemingway pace gathers and creates meaning in new ways an expansive study of the problems encountered by educational leaders in pursuit of reform and how these issues cyclically translate into future topics of reform school reform is almost always born out of big dreams and well meaning desires to change the status quo but between lofty reform legislation and the students whose education is at stake there are numerous additional policies and policymakers who determine how reforms operate even in the best cases school reform initiatives can perpetuate problems created by earlier reforms or existing injustices all while introducing new complications in reforming the reform political scientist susan l moffitt education policy scholar michaela krug o neill and the late policy and education scholar david k cohen take on a wide ranging examination of the many intricacies of school reform with a particular focus on policymakers in the spaces between legislation and implementation such as the countless school superintendents and district leaders tasked with developing new policies in the unique context of their district or schools the authors identify common problems that arise when trying to operationalize ambitious reform ideas their research draws on more than 250 interviews with administrators in tennessee and california chosen as contrasts for their different political makeup and centralization of the education system and is presented here alongside survey data from across the united states as well as archival data to demonstrate how public schools shoulder enormous responsibilities for the american social safety net they provide a general explanation for problems facing social policy reforms in federalist systems including healthcare and offer pathways forward for education policy in particular
