understanding policy analysis in france requires first a thorough exploration of the distinction usually made in french academic and practitioner debates between policy studies and policy analysis essentially the difference between studies of policy and studies designed for the use of policy this book begins there then delves into questions of how and by whom knowledge of policies is produced within and outside the french state showing that while the tension between the two types of study is real the continued exchange of ideas between them has led to an enrichment of both spheres the book thus lays the foundation for a more systematic understanding of policy analysis in france an enduring educational concern that has plagued researchers and policy makers in a number of affluent countries is the endemic nature of educational inequalities these inequalities highlight distinct differences in the educational skills knowledge capabilities and credentials between learners demographic characteristics they also point to issues of educational disadvantage that emanate from a combination of factors including family life communities the geographies of space and place gender and ethnicity this book examines some of the causes and responses to educational inequalities and focuses upon poor urban contexts where educational disadvantage is at its most concentrated and where educational policy and practice has over time proliferated it questions how wider inequities experienced by young people in urban contexts generate educational inequalities and disadvantage detailing explicitly what an equitable approach to education might look like included in the book is an innovative educational equity framework and toolkit with illustrative policy and practice case studies bringing together unique scholarship and analysis to examine future educational policy in a holistic comprehensive and equitable way it will be valuable reading for postgraduate students researchers and policy makers with an interest in education and educational equity
