groundbreaking in its call to reconsider our approach to the slow rhythm of time in the very concrete realms of environmental health and social justice world literature today the violence wrought by climate change toxic drift deforestation oil spills and the environmental aftermath of war takes place gradually and often invisibly using the innovative concept of slow violence to describe these threats rob nixon focuses on the inattention we have paid to the attritional lethality of many environmental crises in contrast with the sensational spectacle driven messaging that impels public activism today slow violence because it is so readily ignored by a hard charging capitalism exacerbates the vulnerability of ecosystems and of people who are poor disempowered and often involuntarily displaced while fueling social conflicts that arise from desperation as life sustaining conditions erode in a book of extraordinary scope nixon examines a cluster of writer activists affiliated with the environmentalism of the poor in the global south by approaching environmental justice literature from this transnational perspective he exposes the limitations of the national and local frames that dominate environmental writing and by skillfully illuminating the strategies these writer activists deploy to give dramatic visibility to environmental emergencies nixon invites his readers to engage with some of the most pressing challenges of our time an environmentalist maps the hidden costs of overconsumption in a globalized world by tracing the environmental consequences of five commodities the shadows of consumption gives a hard hitting diagnosis many of the earth's ecosystems and billions of its people are at risk from the consequences of rising consumption products ranging from cars to hamburgers offer conveniences and pleasures but as peter dauvergne makes clear global political and economic processes displace the real costs of consumer goods into distant ecosystems communities and timelines tipping into crisis people and places without the power to resist in the shadows of consumption peter dauvergne maps the costs of consumption that remain hidden in the shadows cast by globalized corporations trade and finance dauvergne traces the environmental consequences of five commodities automobiles gasoline refrigerators beef and harp seals in these fascinating histories we learn for example that american officials ignored warnings about the dangers of lead in gasoline in the 1920s why china is now a leading producer of cfc free refrigerators and how activists were able to stop canada s commercial seal hunt in the 1980s but are unable to do so now dauvergne s innovative analysis allows us to see why so many efforts to manage the global environment are failing even as environmentalism is slowly strengthening he proposes a guiding principle of balanced consumption for both consumers and corporations we know that we can make things better by driving a high mileage car eating locally grown food and buying energy efficient appliances but these improvements are incremental local and insufficient more crucial than our individual efforts to reuse and recycle will be reforms in the global political economy to reduce the inequalities of consumption and correct the imbalance between growing economies and environmental sustainability

Hijacking Environmentalism 2018-12-14

the premise of this book is that our environmental dilemmas are products of biological and sociocultural evolution and that through an understanding of evolution we can reframe debates of thought and action the purpose is to explain the wide variety of environmental worldviews their origins commonalities points of contention and their implications for the modern environmental movement in three parts covering the origins evolution and future of environmentalism it offers instructors and students a framework on which to map theory case studies and classical literature it is shown that environmentalism can be described in terms of six human values utility stability equity beauty sanctity and morality and that these are deeply rooted in our biological and cultural origins in building this case the book draws upon ecology philosophy psychology history biology economics spirituality and aesthetics but rather than consider these all independently it integrates them to craft a mosaic narrative of our species and its home from our evolutionary origins a story emerges it is the story of humankind how we have come to threaten our own existence and why we seem to have such difficulty in acting together to ensure our common future understanding our environmental problems in evolutionary terms gives us a way forward it suggests an environmentalism in which material views of human life include spirituality in which our anthropocentric behaviors incorporate ecological function and in which environmental problems are addressed by the intentional relation of humans to the nonhuman world and to one another aimed at students taking courses in environmental studies the book brings clarity to a complex and at times confusing array of ideas and concepts of environmentalism

the book offers twelve cases of ethics relating to ecology and culture the twelve cases presented in the twelve essays are written by eminent scholars from india usa canada and egypt employing various ecocritical frameworks the writers have tried to understand analyse literary cinematic and other cultural texts and contexts the volume argues that the principles of ethics are as dynamic as culture and nature any ecological perspectives issues conditions cannot be separated from their cultural contexts and thus need a culture specific scrutiny to understand the ethics of ecoculture

Modern Environmentalism 2017-10-13 this book challenges the status quo where profligate building and urban development is described as green and low carbon exposing a number of elephants in the big green room that severely impact upon society and the environment it questions the ethics equity and sustainability of continued growth of the building stock in industrialized contexts amid diminishing demand whilst the developing world is deprived of basic resources and infrastructure even a circular built environment may not go far enough when dramatic reduction in consumption of resources is required to meet sufficient service levels more socio economic value may be derived from built resources by their stewardship adaptation reuse and equitable sharing while ameliorating the adverse impacts of overconsumption by taking a wider perspective of a sustainable built environment the text illustrated by case studies from the olympics and nine countries reframes the policy debate and reforms current approaches through a new theory and manifesto it will appeal to policy makers architects urban designers educators students and green building practitioners
