Elephants Cry 2021-06-22 the ethical treatment of animals has become an issue of serious moral concern many people are challenging long held assumptions about animals and raising questions about their status and treatment

what is the relationship between humans and animals do animals have moral standing do we have direct or indirect duties to animals does human benefit always outweigh animal suffering the use of animals for experimentation raises all of these questions in a particularly insistent way donna yarri gives an overview of the current state of the discussion and presents an argument for significantly restricted animal experimentation pointing to the similarities between humans and animals she argues that the actual differences are differences of degree rather than kind animal cognition and animal sentience together are the basis for the claim that experimental animals do have rights examining arguments in the disciplines of ethology philosophy science and theology yarri makes a case for placing substantial restrictions on animal experimentation grounding her examination in christian theology she formulates a more humane approach to animal experimentation she concludes with a concrete burden benefit analysis that can serve as the foundation for informed decision making the ethics of animal experimentation serves as both a handbook of animal rights theory and a practical guide to navigating the complexities of animal experimentation as animal experimentation features in an increasing number of scientific endeavors it is an ethical issue that requires our immediate attention yarri's unique contribution forges a path toward an ethical practice of animal experimentation

Kidstery 1873 this book begins with the assumption that the presence of non human creatures causes an always already uncanny rift in human assumptions about reality exploring the dark side of animal nature and the otherness of animals as viewed by humans and employing cutting edge theory on non human animals eco criticism literary and cultural theory this book takes the gothic genre into new territory after the dissemination of darwin s theories of evolution nineteenth century fiction quickly picked up on the idea of the animal within here the fear explored was of an unruly defiant degenerate and entirely amoral animality lying mostly dormant within all of us however non humans and humans have other sorts of encounters too and even before darwin humans have often had an uneasy relationship with animals which as donna haraway puts it have a way of looking back at us in this book the focus is not on the animal within but rather on the animal with out other and entirely incomprehensible
