good questions about life and death makes us think again about some of the most important issues we ever have to face addresses the fundamental questions that many of us ask about life and death written in an engaging and straightforward style ideal for those with no formal background in philosophy focuses on commonly pondered issues such as is life sacred is it bad to die is there life after death does life have meaning and which life is best encourages readers to think about and respond to the human condition features case studies thought experiments and references to literature film music religion and myth this book although about my life i hope you experience it as a narrative about the questions challenges and decisions we all make in life often we re afraid to ask hard questions fearing the start of a word war ending in a communication catastrophe or family collapse asking hard questions reduces being defined by an organization or someone who wants to limit or categorize you when i don t ask hard questions of myself my motives or my actions i typically settle for the minimum out of life instead of embracing all that life can deliver reading this book or using it in a group setting will open your mind to seeking greater connectedness and increased self awareness asking hard questions can stimulate deeper thinking help define purpose in life and generate enthusiasm for living in new more fulfilling ways it s taken a lifetime to realize a lack of questions leads to ignorance failure and despair i m a grandfather husband and father who grew up as a mid west farm boy one of eight children where stability and connectedness were cornerstones of our traditional family and community i like leading small groups preaching speaking and traveling i m a busy amateur photographer who takes long walks i have a bsme and mdiv both took ten years to achieve i started a software development company in my thirties twenty five years later after my m div i received a call to a lutheran pastorate i m retired and live with my wife of 55 years in the cold north we have two adult children two grandchildren and a dog i have not arrived i don t believe we ever reach perfection humans are imperfect but we re always striving for a taste of the life to come writing for both men and women the author of women who love too much sets out to teach readers to recognize the soul s purpose she offers a perspective on adversity that addresses questions such as what is the point of pain why are relationships so difficult what does my life mean what are your solutions to life s questions this is not your typical book here you will find 365 questions designed to open up your mind to think about yourself and your place in the world in new ways with these questions you may come to powerful realizations that will help you to improve yourself the people around you and maybe even the world most self development books present you with solutions to common problems this can be helpful but what if those solutions work for most people but not you perhaps what you need is a book of questions to help stimulate you to find useful solutions for your unique situation maybe you always had the solutions deep down somewhere inside of you and you just needed the right questions to help guide you to them when you do the work of pursuing your answers to these questions you will be rewarded with a breakthrough in understanding your life your place in the world and the path that you were destined for understand that there is no single right answer no one perspective that is right there is only your personal truth that you must reveal to yourself in question yourself the authors give you the credit that with your knowledge background and experiences and with the right questions you will be able to discover solutions to your life s troubles look inside deeper and deeper into yourself and you may be surprised at the power and abilities you always possessed you may even discover new parts of yourself you never knew existed authors dave edelstein a b philosophy from harvard university and i c robledo m s industrial organizational psychology from university of oklahoma combine their expertise in philosophy psychology and self development to provide you with questions which were designed to help you help yourself the authors believe there is enormous potential in seeking the answers within rather than always seeking them from sources outside of yourself here is a small sample of the questions you will find inside question 9 are you afraid of being alone with yourself or do you enjoy it question 57 what is love how do you show it question 112 what is the one thing you know for sure question 182 are the small moments in life worth more than we give them credit for question 263 what amount of money would it take for you to consider forsaking your deeply held values question 295 are you in the process of fulfilling your dreams or is there an obstacle in your path question 359 have you ever felt personally touched by a spirit or higher power are you ready to find meaningful solutions to your life s greatest troubles with question yourself question yourself will help you to begin searching for answers to some of life s toughest challenging and thought provoking questions questioning is a skill and art that we must all develop but this book rather than answering your questions actually provides questions for every day of the new year that you might have never even thought to ask on your own these will offer you some of the best questions to figure out this life all on your own no book can provide you a definitive answer to these difficult questions but perhaps you can figure it all out for yourself with a bit of thought and reflection perhaps you can change your life by truly digging deep and searching for your own responses with this awesome list of wonderful questions to use as a prompt this book is ideal for high school and college students gifted and talented students standardized test takers teachers educators adult learners independent learners and self starters school administrators managers and leaders and parents similar authors you may have enjoyed include sean patrick daniel coyle mihaly csikszentmihalyi malcolm gladwell steven pressfield walter isaacson michael michalko ed catmull david mcrahey tony buzan barbara oakley joshua foer sanjay gupta harry lorayne edward de bono joseph murphy john c maxwell robert greene peter hollins peter c brown jim kwik and josh waitzkin similar genres of books you tend to read will be nonfiction self help self improvement personal development mind and brain improvement philosophy applied psychology biographies and memoirs education learning academic textbooks health mind body business and investing religion and spirituality and christian books if you enjoyed reading the book of questions revised and updated by gregory stock a more beautiful question the power of inquiry to spark breakthrough ideas by warren berger or questions you must answer before you die by air then you won't want to miss this book question yourself is available as an ebook paperback book and audiobook pick up your copy today by scrolling to the top of the page and clicking buy now keywords interactive book philosophical questions spiritual guide writing prompt soul searching self actualization love questions money questions challenging questions powerful questions workbook journal self therapy thought provoking socratic method socrates ask yourself ethical questions self discovery questions the thesis of this book is that the contradictory answers may well compute more effectively than is acknowledged that the culture of higher education and the mesh of psychological contracts or deals that make it up make much of the current discourse about happiness and unhappiness in contemporary life look simplistic and banal there is a comforting tale that heads of higher education institutions he is like to tell each other go around your university or college they say and ask the first ten people who you meet how their morale is the response will always be rock bottom then ask them what they are working on the responses will be full of life of optimism and of enthusiasm for the task in hand the moral of the story is that the two sets of responses don t compute that the first is somehow unthinking and ideological and the second unguarded and sincere the thesis of this book is that the contradictory answers may well compute more effectively than is acknowledged that the culture of higher education and the mesh of psychological contracts or deals that make it up make much of the current discourse about happiness and unhappiness in contemporary life look simplistic and banal in particular the much vaunted science of happiness may not have much to say to us there is also a potential link between the manichean discourse about morale and our wider culture s approach to happiness both normally deal in extremes and much more rarely in graduations why is so much discourse about contemporary higher education structured around real and imagined unhappiness how does this connect with the realities of life within and just outside the institutions does it matter and if so what should we be doing about it based on historical sociological and philosophical analysis this book offers some answers to these questions □□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□
