the queer biopic returns to the historical moment of the aids crisis and the emergence of new queer cinema to investigate the phenomena of queer biopic films produced during the late 1980s early 1990s more specifically the book asks why queer filmmakers repeatedly produced biographical films of queer individuals living and dead throughout the years surrounding the aids crisis while film critics and historian typically treat the biopic as a conservative if not cliché genre queer filmmakers have frequently used the biopic to tell stories of queer lives

this project pays particular attention to the genre's queer resonances opening up the biopic's historical connections to projects of education public health and social hygiene along with the production of a shared history and national identity queer filmmakers engagement with the biopic evokes the genre's history of building life through the portrayal of lives worthy of admiration and emulation but it also points to another biopic history that of representing lives damaged by portraying lives damaged by inconceivable loss queer filmmakers challenge the illusion of a coherent self presumably reinforced by the biopic genre and in doing so their films open up the potential for new means of connection and relationality the book features fresh readings of the cinema of derek jarman john greyson todd haynes barbara hammer and tom kalin by calling for a reappraisal of the queer biopic the book also calls for a reappraisal of new queer cinema's legacy and its influence of contemporary queer film
