the israeli reality points to a number of deep divisions among the population such as between sephardi ashkenazi orthodox secular men women arab jew most of which in our opinion are progressively decreasing as time passes the arab jewish divide is the deepest of all and there is still no solution in spite of its intensity it did not enjoy a centrality whether in public debates or in academia this subject has only come on the agenda after sharp tensions between arabs and jews in this book we will explore in more detail some aspects of the arab jewish divide which raise fundamental questions regarding the place of the arabs and arab language education in the jewish state more specifically the aim of this book is to describe and analyze language education in the arab society in israel from the establishment of the state in 1948 until today for this purpose internal processes which are embedded within the arab population itself were examined such as the socio economic condition of the population the diglossic situation in the arabic language and the wide use of hebrew among arabic speakers furthermore the book also deals with external processes such as the policy of control and inspection of the ministry of education over the arab education system in general and on language education in particular the dominance of hebrew and the definition and perception of israel as a jewish state the influence of both internal and external processes on language education and learning achievements will also be extensively discussed a comprehensive examination was made of arabic hebrew and english as well as the teaching of french in a number of community schools the target group for this book are people who are concerned with sociolinguistics language education and language policy and planning this book will be also of special interest to arab language teachers and policy makers in israel about the book as a sickly child john w waters was told he would not live to five years old his family large and dysfunctional was never any help especially his father who said john would never amount to much even if he did live to see adulthood at three john s love of reading took over and with each year that passed he defied all the odds not only living long enough to see himself become an adult but earning top grades and graduating at the top of his class in high school his father never attended his commencement as his passion for religion and education grew john earned his phd in the hebrew bible and taught at several higher education institutions ending his academic career as a chairperson of the biblical studies department at the itc in atlanta john s passion for the lord is what drove him to begin a new career in ministry beginning as a youth minister and moving up through the ranks until he retired as a senior minister emeritus at the greater solid rock baptist church receiving many honors and awards throughout his life for his community and religious service john succeeded in a world where most thought he would fail and now writes his inspiring journey in this one of a kind memoir for those who were always told they would never succeed for those who see themselves as unworthy in the eyes of god you are and with hard work determination and a strong faith your journey can be just as fruitful about the author john w waters phd enjoys reading listening to good music cooking and writing poetry after living for more than eight decades he no longer actively engages in civic and community activities as he had been rethinking languages education assembles innovative research from experts in the fields of sociocultural theory applied linguistics and education the contributors interrogate innovative and recent thinking and broach controversies about the theoretical and practical considerations that underpin the implementation of effective languages pedagogy in twenty first century classrooms crucially rethinking languages education explores established understandings about language culture and education to provide a more comprehensive and flexible understanding of languages education that responds to local classrooms impacted by global and transnational change and the politics of language culture and identity rethinking languages education focuses on questions about ways that we can develop farsighted and successful languages education for diverse students in globalised contexts the response to these questions is multi layered and takes into account the complex interactions between policy curriculum and practice as well as their contention and implementation in doing so this book addresses and integrates innovative perspectives of contemporary theory and pedagogy for languages tesol and eal d education it includes diverse discussions around practice and addresses issues of the dominance of prestige languages programs for minority and heritage languages as well as discussing controversies about the current provision of english and languages programs around the world a critical and accessible text this book provides a foundation for translanguaging theory and practice with educating emergent bilingual students the product of the internationally renowned and trailblazing city university of new york new york state initiative on emergent bilinguals cuny nysieb this book draws on a common vision of translanguaging to present different perspectives of its practice and outcomes in real schools it tells the story of the collaborative project s positive impact on instruction and assessment in different contexts and explores the potential for transformation in teacher education acknowledging oppressive traditions and obstacles facing language minoritized students this book provides a pathway for combatting racism monolingualism classism and colonialism in the classroom and offers narratives strategies and pedagogical practices to liberate and engage emergent bilingual students this book is an essential text for all teacher educators researchers scholars and students in tesol and bilingual education as well as educators working with language minoritized students judicial decisions of the commissioner of education anne fadiman is by her own admission the sort of person who learned about sex from her father s copy of fanny hill whose husband buys her 19 pounds of dusty books for her birthday and who once found herself poring over her roommate s 1974 toyota corolla manual because it was the only written material in the apartment that she had not read at least twice this witty collection of essays recounts a lifelong love affair with books and language for fadiman as for many passionate readers the books she loves have become chapters in her own life story writing with remarkable grace she revives the tradition of the well crafted personal essay moving easily from anecdotes about coleridge and orwell to tales of her own pathologically literary family as someone who played at blocks with her father's 22 volume set of trollope's Ancestral Castles and who only really considered herself married when she and her husband had merged collections marrying libraries she is exquisitely well equipped to expand upon the art of inscriptions the perverse pleasures of compulsive proof reading the allure of long words and the satisfactions of reading out loud there is even a foray into pure literary gluttony charles lamb liked buttered muffin crumbs between the leaves and fadiman knows of more than one reader who literally consumes page corners perfectly balanced between humor and erudition ex libris establishes fadiman as one of our finest contemporary essayists the foundation of assessment and evaluation is an understanding of the philosophy of transactional teaching and learning this book provides such an understanding this book is a self teaching guide to the spss for windows computer package it is designed to be used with spss version 8.0 and beyond although many of the procedures are also applicable to earlier versions of spss this guide is extremely easy to follow since all procedures are outlined in a straightforward step by step format because of its self instructional nature the beginning student can learn to analyze statistical data with spss without outside assistance the reader is walked through numerous examples that illustrate how to use the spss package the results produced by spss are shown and discussed in each application each chapter demonstrates statistical procedures and provides exercises that reinforce the text examples and can be performed for further practice chapter 1 of this guide describes how to start the spss program and how to open data files chapters 2 through 16 give descriptions of statistical procedures which assume that a data file has been opened this manual describes basic descriptive statistics through multiple regression analysis with three chapters 7-9 that discuss probability theory simple definitions of statistical concepts are provided for each procedure joe feldman shows us how we can use grading to help students become the leaders of their own learning and lift the veil on how to succeed this must have book will help teachers learn to implement improved equity focused grading for impact zaretta hammond author of Culturally Responsive Teaching: The Brain Crack opens the grading conversation here at last and none too soon is a resource that delivers the research base tools and courage to tackle one of the most challenging and emotionally charged conversations in today's schools our inconsistent grading practices and the ways they can inadvertently perpetuate the achievement and opportunity gaps among our students with Grading for Equity joe feldman cuts to the core of the conversation revealing how grading practices that are accurate bias resistant and motivational will improve learning minimize grade inflation reduce failure rates and become a lever for creating stronger teacher student relationships and more caring classrooms essential reading for schoolwide and individual book study or for student advocates grading for equity provides a critical historical backdrop describing how our inherited system of grading was originally set up as a sorting mechanism to provide or deny opportunity control students and endorse a fixed mindset about students academic potential practices that are still in place a century later a summary of the research on motivation and equitable teaching and learning establishing a rock solid foundation and a true north orientation toward equitable grading practices specific grading practices that are more equitable along with teacher examples strategies to solve common hiccups and concerns and evidence of effectiveness reflection tools for facilitating individual or group engagement and understanding as joe writes grading practices are a mirror not just for students but for us as their teachers each one of us should start by asking what do my grading practices say about who i am and what i believe then let's make the choice to do things differently with grading for equity as a dog eared reference includes information by the commission and various public officials and agencies on the economic social geographic and local governmental development of the philippines blake taylor's mother first suspected he had adhd when he at only three years of age tried to push his infant sister in her carrier off the kitchen table as time went by blake developed a reputation for being hyperactive and impulsive he launched rockets accidentally into neighbor's swimming pools and set off alarms in museums blake was diagnosed formally with adhd when he was five years old in ADHD and Me he tells about the next twelve years as he learns to live with both the good and bad sides of life with adhd blake's memoir offers for the first time a
