Reading the Bible across Contexts 2018-05-31 the gun control debate is more complex than we often acknowledge what is often phrased as a single question should we have gun control is actually made up of three distinct policy questions first who should we permit people to have guns second which guns should be allowed thirdly how should we regulate the acquisition storage and carrying of the guns people may legitimately own to answer these questions we must decide whether and which people have a right to bear arms what kind of right they have and how stringent that right is we must also evaluate divergent empirical claims about a the role of guns in causing harm and b the degree to which private ownership of guns can protect innocent civilians from attacks by criminals either in their homes or in public hugh lafollette sorts through the conceptual moral and empirical claims to fairly assess arguments for and against serious gun control and ultimately argues that the us needs far more gun control than we currently have in most jurisdictions
