in 1968 veronica lueken a catholic housewife in bayside queens new york began to experience visions of the virgin mary over almost three decades she imparted over 300 messages from mary jesus and other heavenly personages these revelations which were sent all over the world through newsletters billboards and local television severely criticized the liturgical changes of vatican ii and the wickedness of american society unless everyone repented lueken warned a fiery ball would collide with the earth causing death and destruction around the world when catholic church authorities tried to dismiss discredit and even banish her lueken declared pope paul vi a communist imposter accused the church of being in error since vatican ii and sought new venues in which to communicate her revelations since her death in 1995 her followers have continued to gather to promote her messages in flushing meadows park queens known as the baysiders they believe that st robert bellarmine s church from which lueken was banned from holding vigils will someday become the lourdes of america and that lueken will be elevated to sainthood joseph p laycock delves into untapped archival materials and a wealth of ethnographic research to unfold the fascinating story of veronica lueken and the baysiders from 1968 to the present though scholars have characterized the baysiders variously as a new religious movement a form of folk piety and a traditionalist sect members of the group regard themselves as loyal catholics maybe the last in existence they are critical of the church hierarchy which they believe corrupted by modernism and reject ultra traditionalist catholic groups who believe that the papal see is vacant laycock shows how the baysiders have deviated significantly from mainstream catholic culture while keeping in dialogue with church authorities and reveals how the persistence of the baysiders and other marian groups has contributed to greater amenability toward devotional culture and private revelation on the part of church authorities the seer of bayside is an invaluable study of the perpetual struggle between lay catholics and church authorities over who holds the power to define catholic culture the rig veda is not only one of the oldest sacred scriptures of the world but also one of the most misunderstood past scholarship has dismissed the hymns of the rig veda as being expressions of a primitive animistic mentality that only rarely rose to true spiritual and philosophical heights david frawley s book demonstrates that this judgmental view is ill founded his fine renderings of select vedic hymns bear witness to the fact that their composers were sages and seers powerful poets who knew the art of symbolic and metaphoric communication the vedic hymns give us a unique glimpse not into a primitive mentality but a mentality and culture that revolved around the highest spiritual values and visions this is an important and riveting book ushering in a new and sounder tradition of vedic interpretation and scholarship georg feuerstein this study fills a gap in previous research concerning the portrayal of peter in matthew especially the research of narrative critical studies although narrative critical studies generally recognize that matthew has portrayed peter and the disciples as recipients of revelation at points they almost entirely neglect the apocalypses or apocalyptic literature more broadly as a potentially helpful background for this motif nor does the motif itself figure significantly into their conclusions therefore part 1 of this study examines fourteen different jewish and christian apocalypses in order to determine generic aspects of how the apocalypses portray their seers and to identify specific textual features that support these generic aspects of a seer s portrayal these specific textual features then provide the guiding coordinates for part 2 which assesses the influence of the generic portrayal of apocalyptic seers on the portrayal of peter and the disciples in matthew s gospel and main source mark s gospel like the apocalypses both evangelists deploy the features of exclusionary statements narrative isolation dissemination details and emphasis of cognitive humanity and emotional physical humanity to portray peter and the disciples as the exclusive recipients of revealed mysteries and as humans who encounter the mysteries of the divine realm this leads to the conclusion that both evangelists envisaged peter and the disciples as apocalyptic seers in some sense however matthew s redaction of markan source material incorporation of q source material and his own special material yield a more fully developed or more explicit portrayal of peter and the disciples as apocalyptic seers than his markan predecessor the study concludes by focusing directly on peter s significance for matthew and his earliest audience the research suggests that peter s significance was in part as principal apocalyptic seer which requires revision to the predominant scholarly conclusions about peter in matthew
