the ability of the united states navy to fight and win a protracted war in the

the pacific was not solely the result of technology tactics or leadership naval aviation maintenance played a major role in the u s victory over japan in the second world war the naval war against japan did not achieve sustained success until enough aircraft technicians were available to support the high tempo of aviation operations that fast carrier task force doctrine demanded when the united states realized war was imminent and ordered a drastic increase in the size of its aviation fleet the navy was forced to reconsider its earlier practices and develop new policies in maintenance supply and technical training not only did a shortage of technicians plague the navy but the scarcity of aviation supply and repair facilities in the pacific soon caused panic in washington while the surface navy s modernization of at sea replenishment was beneficial it did not solve the problems of sustaining war time aircraft readiness levels sufficient to a winning a naval air war fisher outlines the drastic institutional changes that accompanied an increase in aviation maintenance personnel from fewer than 10 000 to nearly 250 000 bluejackets the complete restructuring of the naval aviation technical educational system and the development of a highly skilled labor force the first comprehensive study on the importance of aircraft maintenance and the aircraft technician in the age of the aircraft carrier sustaining the carrier war provides the missing link to our understanding of great power conflict at sea when john f kennedy was shot millions were left to wonder how america and the world would have been different had he lived to fulfill the enormous promise of his presidency for many historians and political observers what kennedy would and would not have done in vietnam has been a source of enduring controversy now based on convincing new evidence including a startling revelation about the kennedy administration s involvement in the assassination of premier diem howard jones argues that kennedy intended to withdraw the great bulk of american soldiers and pursue a diplomatic solution to the crisis in vietnam drawing upon recently declassified hearings by the church committee on the u s role in assassinations newly released tapes of kennedy white house discussions and interviews with john kenneth galbraith robert mcnamara dean rusk and others from the president s inner circle jones shows that kennedy firmly believed that the outcome of the war depended on the south vietnamese in the spring of 1962 he instructed secretary of defense mcnamara to draft a withdrawal plan aimed at having all special military forces home by the end of 1965 the comprehensive plan for south vietnam was ready for approval in early may 1963 but then the buddhist revolt erupted and postponed the program convinced that the war was not winnable under diem s leadership president kennedy made his most critical mistake promoting a coup as a means for facilitating a u s withdrawal in the cruelest of ironies the coup resulted in diem s death followed by a state of turmoil in vietnam that further obstructed disengagement still these events only confirmed kennedy s view about south vietnam s inability to win the war and therefore did not lessen his resolve to reduce the u s commitment by the end of november however the president was dead and lyndon johnson began his campaign of escalation jones argues forcefully that if kennedy had not been assassinated his withdrawal plan would have spared the lives of 58 000 americans and countless vietnamese written with vivid immediacy supported with authoritative research death of a generation answers one of the most profoundly important questions left hanging in the aftermath of john f kennedy s death death of a generation was a choice outstanding academic title for 2003
