familiar to charles de lint s ever growing audience as the setting of the novels memory dream trader and someplace to be flying newford is the quintessential north american city tough and streetwise on the surface and rich with hidden magic for those who can see now de lint returns to this extraordinary city for a third volume of short stories set there including several never before published in book form here is enchantment under a streetlamp the landscape of urban north america as only charles de lint can show it blending lovecraft s imagery dunsany s poetry carroll s surrealism and alice hoffman s small town strangeness wrote interzone on dreams underfoot de lint s newford tales are a haunting mixture of human warmth and cold inevitability of lessons learned and prices to be paid at the quicksilver shadow is the second volume of a projected three of charles de lint s collected early stories at nearly 150 000 words it s even larger than volume one a handful of coppers and includes the very obscure 20 000 word novella berlin and its over 30 000 word counterpart death leaves an echo

Promises to Keep

an unusual novel from charles de lint a tale set in an entirely imaginary high fantasy world the harp was a gift from jacky lanter s fey kin as was the music angharad pulled from its strings she used it in her journeys through the kingdoms of green isles to wake the magic of the summerblood where it lay sleeping in folk who had never known they had it harping she knew was on third of a bard s spells harping and poetry and the road that led into the green charles de lint takes us once again into lands infused and transformed by magic magic that grows in the roots of old oaks and dances by moonlight among standing stones magic that sleeps in an old soldier s eyes and glows in the gaze of a phantom stag magic that pumps through the heart and the veins of those born to the summerblood to be stolen at knife point burned destroyed in danger of fading back into the green and disappearing forever from the world from a modern master of contemporary fantasy comes the compelling follow up to the award winning Under My Skin. Josh Saunders knew his troubles weren't over; he just never thought that everything would blow up as hard and fast as it has. Sure, he's got a mountain lion living under his skin, but he still thought he could keep his head down and get a few days of respite. But the FBI still has questions for Josh, and a bully is out to make sure that he doesn't even think about trying to return to normal life. In the meantime, several wildling elders view Josh as their prospective leader and ambassador between the human and wildling communities, but unbeknownst to almost everyone, including Josh, another formidable wildling elder is determined to have him secretly murdered by the hand of one of Josh's own friends. John will have to face powerful wildling clashes, angry street gangs, a hateful bully, FBI investigators, and perhaps even the loss of the friendships he treasures most.
