the understandings which children have of indigenous identity provide means by which to explore the ways in which indigenous identity is both projected and constructed in society these understandings play a powerful part in the ways in which indigenous peoples are positioned in the mainstream society with which they are connected the research presented in this edited collection uses children s drawings to illuminate and explore the images children both mainstream and indigenous have of indigenous peoples the data generated by this process allows exploration of the ways in which indigenous identity is understood globally through a series of locally focussed studies connected by theme and approach the data serves to illuminate both the space made available by mainstream groups and aspects of modernity accommodated within the indigenous sense of self our aim within this project has been to analyse and discuss the ways in which children construct identity both their own and that of others children were asked to share their thoughts through drawings which were then used as the basis for conversation with the researchers in this way the interaction between mainstream modernity and traditional indigenous identity is made available for discussion and the connection between children s lived experiences of identity and the wider global discussion is both immediately enacted and located within broader international understandings of indigenous cultures and their place in the world assessment and evaluation are two concepts at the core of schooling which are also central to other forms of education worldwide in an international context assessment and evaluation data are increasingly widely used for accountability and quality assurance purposes at individual student institutional national and global levels this book does not attempt to include consideration of all the issues that could possibly be covered in a title that addresses assessment and evaluation in education internationally nor has it set out to cover the myriad technical issues with which assessment and evaluation are inevitably concerned rather a number of authors working within different contexts of international education whether as teachers or leaders in international schools administrators in international examination bodies or researchers in international educational research organisations have been invited to share ideas arising from their own experiences of what might be interpreted as assessment or evaluation be that assessment of student achievement evaluation of teacher effectiveness or evaluation of school quality the international dimension presents a range of challenges to those with responsibility for implementing assessment and evaluation strategies in widely diverse linguistic cultural social and personal contexts and in this book valuable contributions are shared by colleagues who are authorities in the field it is their personal views on assessment and evaluation derived from professional practice in the international sphere that have been brought together here young people who are considered vulnerable or at risk are a particular target of various policies schemes and interventions but what does vulnerability mean interrogating conceptions of vulnerable youth explores this question in relation to various policy fields that are relevant to young people as well for how this plays out in practice and how it is experienced by young people themselves what makes this book unique is that most authors had the opportunity to jointly explore these issues during a two day workshop and their chapters are informed by their cross agency and cross discipline discussions making for a nuanced and thoughtful set of contributions this collection is highly recommended for researchers and research students in the social sciences as well as professional staff working in youth policy and youth services in government departments and in ngos those who are most vulnerable should receive our greatest moral attention however the translation of generalised moral principles into effective policy and programs has never been easy political interests have invariably intervened leading to complex debates about how vulnerability should be defined classified measured and represented in recent years these debates have become further complicated as nation states around the world have preached austerity this timely book suggests that the responsibility for protecting the vulnerable cannot be left to individuals but demands collective action through institutions such as education health and welfare it examines some of the ways in which public policies and programs represent those who are vulnerable involving a range of assumptions about the social economic and political conditions that produce their vulnerabilities from the foreword by professor fazal rizvi questioning the language of improvement and reform in education challenges the language used in education by linking the language of both the public and professional domains with the changing intentions of the governance of education exploring various issues which embody the many manifestations of the manner in which strident conservative language has captured the public view of education the book covers topics such as the importance of language in the context of educational practice the media s portrayal of teachers globally the role of students in the face of curriculum reform and the language used in educational policy worldwide the book addresses the ways in which the words improvement and reform have been appropriated and hollowed out by policymakers in order to justify globalised education policies using international case studies and reports the authors argue that the employment of specific words masks the reality that new educational policies are regressive and require re examination while perpetuating the illusion that progressive educational practice is being brought to the fore questioning the language of improvement and reform in education is a fascinating and original take on this topic which will be of great interest to educational practitioners policymakers and linguists
