2022-03 papua new guinea is going through a crisis a concentration on conventional approaches to development including an unsustainable reliance on mining forestry and foreign aid has contributed to the country s slow decline since independence in 1975 sustainable communities sustainable development attempts to address problems and gaps in the literature on development and develop a new qualitative conception of community sustainability informed by substantial and innovative research in papua new guinea in this context sustainability is conceived in terms that include not just practices tied to economic development it also informs questions of wellbeing and social integration community building social support and infrastructure renewal in short the concern with sustainability here entails undertaking an analysis of how communities are sustained through time how they cohere and change rather than being constrained within discourses and models of development from another angle this project presents an account of community sustainability detached from instrumental concerns with economic development contributors address questions such as what are the stories and histories through which people respond to their nation's development what is the everyday social environment of groups living in highly diverse areas migrant settlements urban villages remote communities they seek to contribute to a creative and dynamic grass roots response to the demands of everyday life and local global pressures while the overdeveloped world faces an intersecting crisis created by global climate change and financial instability papua new guinea with all its difficulties still has the basis for responding to this manifold predicament its secret lies in what has been seen as its weakness underdeveloped economies and communities where people still maintain sustainable relations to each other and the natural world
