the overland trails in the 1860s witnessed the creation of stage stations to facilitate overland travel these stations placed every twenty or thirty miles ensured that travelers would be able to obtain grain for their livestock and food for themselves they also sped up the process of mail delivery to remote western outposts tragically the easing of overland travel coincided with renewed conflicts with the cheyenne and other plains indians the massacre of black kettle s people at sand creek instigated two years of bloody reprisals and counterreprisals amid this turmoil and change these daring women continued to build on the example set by earlier women pioneers as harriet loughary wrote upon her arrival in california after two thousands of miles in an ox team making an average of eighteen miles a day enduring privations and dangers when we think of the earliest pioneers we feel an untold gratitude towards them some of the women traveling west in the late 1850s were strong advocates of equal rights for their sex on the trail julia archibald holmes and hannah keziah clapp sensibly wore the freedom costume called bloomers in 1858 holmes joined the pikes peak gold rush and was the first woman of record to climb the famous mountain educator hannah clapp traveled to california with a revolver by her side speaking her mind in a letter included in this volume which is also enriched by the trail diaries of seven other women among them were sarah sutton who died in 1854 just before reaching oregon s willamette valley sarah maria mousley a mormon woman traveling to utah in 1857 and martha missouri moore who drove thousands of sheep from missouri to california with her husband in 1860 we traveled this forenoon over the roughest and most desolate piece of ground that was ever made wrote amelia knight during her 1853 wagon train journey to oregon some of the parties who traveled with knight were propelled by religious motives hannah king an englishwoman and mormon convert was headed for salt lake city her cultured introspective diary touches on the feelings of sensitive people bound together in a stressful undertaking celinda hines and rachel taylor were methodists seeking their new canaan in oregon also oregon bound in 1853 were sarah sally perkins whose minimalist record cuts deep and eliza butler ground and margaret butler smith sisters who wrote revealing letters after arriving going to california in 1854 were elizabeth myrick who wrote a no nonsense diary and the teenage mary burrell whose wit and exuberance prevail v 1 the women who traveled west in covered wagons during the 1840s speak through these letters and diaries here are the voices of tamsen donner and young virginia reed members of the ill fated donner party patty sessions the mormon midwife who delivered five babies on the trail between omaha and salt lake city rachel fisher who buried both her husband and her little girl before reaching oregon still others make themselves heard starting out from different places and recording details along the way from the mundane to the soul shattering and spirit lifting in 1852 a record number of women helped keep the wagons rolling over the perilous western trails the fourth volume of covered wagon women is devoted to families headed for california that year diaries and letters of six pioneer women describe the rigors en route trailside celebrations and tragedies the scourge of cholera and encounters with the indians forty years after the legendary overland travels of oregon pioneers in the 1840s lucy clark allen wrote the excitement continues economic hard times in minnesota sent allen and her husband to montana in hopes of evading the droughts grasshoppers and failed crops that had plagued their farm allen and her compatriots in this volume of covered wagon women experienced a journey much different than that of their predecessors many settlements now awaited those bound for the west with amenities such as hotels and restaurants as well as grain suppliers to provide feed for the horses and mules that had replaced the slower oxen in pulling wagons routes were clearly marked some had been replaced entirely by railroad tracks nevertheless many of the same dangers fears and aspirations confronted these dauntless women who traveled the overland trails the stories seem simple they left they traveled they settled yet the restless westering impulse of americans created one of the most enduring figures in our frontier pantheon the hardy pioneer persevering against all odds undeterred by storms ruthless bandits towering mountains and raging epidemics the women in these volumes suggest why the pioneer represented the highest ideals and aspirations of a young nation in this concluding volume of the covered wagon women series we see the final animal powered overland migrations that were even then yielding to railroad travel and in a few short years to the automobile the diaries and letters resonate with the vigor and spirit that made possible the settling and community building of the american west v 1 the women who traveled west in covered wagons during the
