food is a challenging subject there is little consensus about how and what we should produce and consume it is not even clear what food is or whether people have similar experiences of it on one hand food is recognized as a basic need if not a basic right on the other hand it is hard to generalize about it given the wide range of practices and cuisines and the even wider range of tastes this book is an introduction to the philosophical dimensions of food david m kaplan examines the nature and meaning of food how we experience it the social role it plays its moral and political dimensions and how we judge it to be delicious or awful he shows how the different branches of philosophy contribute to a broader understanding of food what food is metaphysics how we experience food epistemology what taste in food is aesthetics how we should make and eat food ethics how governments should regulate food political philosophy and why food matters to us existentialism kaplan embarks on a series of philosophical investigations considering topics such as culinary armenians are one of the ethnic components of the iraqi social spectrum nothing was known about armenians of iraq except as christians or as migrants from armenia originally it is well known that the armenians of iraq are generally keen to preserve their armenian ethnic and cultural entity and are usually peaceful and far from being involved in political conflicts and polarization however some people might imagine them living in the shadows or margins of iraqi life especially since there is a near total absence of studies on iraqi armenians in the different fields of humanities and social sciences this gives us an impression of their conservatism and closeness but this dissipates as soon as the researcher goes to investigate them this leaves us with a number of questions about the existence of armenian people in iraq what is their relationship with the mother country armenia what are the demographic characteristics of their population in arabic countries what are the social and cultural characteristics of their lifestyle in iraq including marriage customs what were their roles in the development of iraqi public life if they existed in iraq do they have a conflict of social cosmopolitanism and the development of the international criminal court analyzes a set of prominent and competing discourses that emerged in the context of the development and establishment of the international criminal court icc the icc is the first permanent juridical body designed to prosecute individuals who commit offences including war crimes crimes against humanity and genocide drawing on scholarship on public memory and human rights the book argues that international law and the international human rights system play a key role for the development of transnational memory discourses and transnational or cosmopolitan subjectivities despite the international criminal court being recognized as a landmark development in global cooperation an examination of key events in the development of the court shows how some state and nonstate actors advance calls for cosmopolitanism while others resist cosmopolitanism to bolster nation state sovereignty drawing on the establishment of the international criminal court as a case study the book examines several events that continue to shape national and international public discourse the book examines debates that occurred during the drafting process of the international treaty at the united nations and that led to the groundbreaking inclusion of provisions on gender and sexual violence in the rome statute of the icc in 1998 the analysis discusses the tension between feminist advocates rhetoric and the discourse of anti women s rights actors involved in the treaty making process who resisted such inclusions in international criminal law the book analyzes other key events related to the establishment of the icc that invoke tensions between competing demands of cosmopolitanism and national sovereignty including advocacy campaigns by nongovernmental organizations working to drum up public support of the institution of the international criminal court and the debates surrounding the unprecedented act of the united states unsigning an international treaty in sum this examination of the rhetoric of state and nonstate actors attempting to shape the court according to their visions of global community shows how discourses about international criminal law and human rights are employed not only to advance cosmopolitanism but also to strengthen nationalist discourses
