service learning is entering a post initiatory phase at tertiary institutions of all types and sizes service learning programs are common and service learning requirements for graduation are growing in popularity taken together alongside continued faculty interest in effective teaching these factors have raised the visibility and popularity of service learning now the greater need in service learning is not to prove the need for or efficacy of service learning but to turn the focus squarely back on practice following established best practice is not enough instructors also need to reflect on how this fits within the specific context and application of each unique course and service learning partnership while there are many excellent resources that detail best practice and showcase exemplary service learning courses faculty reflection and course revision often goes unmentioned in response to the lack of attention on the role of reflection and course revision we convened groups of faculty from a variety of disciplines to reflect deeply on their courses paying specific attention to obstacles and challenges these conversations were converted to articles for this edited collection each chapter representing the process of reflection and revision and serving as a guide to develop effective practice in varied curricular contexts this text contributes to the body of literature on service learning in a unique and practical manner faculty teaching or interested in teaching service learning classes would benefit from this text as well as university administrators and community service directors involved in service learning at a programmatic and institutional level this book should be marketed to faculty teaching disciplinary service learning classes and service learning pedagogy classes and administrative offices involved in service learning this could be a supplementary text for graduate level pedagogy courses higher education institutional libraries would benefit from this text as well as the national and state campus compact offices

This practical and engaging book introduces readers to reflective practice in English language teaching. Assuming no background knowledge, Thomas S. C. Farrell clearly and accessibly walks through ways that teachers can integrate and implement reflective practice in the classroom and in other contexts to benefit their teaching and their own professional development. Each chapter covers an important dimension of reflective practice and features many ready-to-use activities that are designed to empower teachers and allow them to overcome challenges they will face throughout their careers. Covering many types of reflection and the many purposes it serves, this book addresses written reflection, lesson planning, classroom observation, classroom management, group communication, and more. This resource is ideal for preservice and early career language teachers and is an important supplement to courses in language education and applied linguistics programs.

The Learning Portfolio is a powerful complement to traditional measures of student achievement and a widely diverse method of recording intellectual growth. This second edition of this important book offers new samples of print and electronic learning portfolios, an academic understanding of and rationale for learning portfolios, and practical information that can be customized. It offers a review of the value of reflective practice in student learning and how learning portfolios support assessment and collaboration. It includes revised sample assignment sheets, guidelines, criteria, evaluation rubrics, and other material for developing print and electronic portfolios.

How to Manage Student Consulting Projects 2020-09-25

Offering a truly global perspective, this book serves as a road map for service learning partnerships between information science and nonprofit organizations. It introduces, for the first time, an essential framework for service learning in CIS, addressing both the challenges and opportunities of this approach for all stakeholders involved: faculty, students, and community nonprofit organizations (NPOs) both domestic and abroad. This volume outlines numerous examples of successful programs from around the world, presenting practical working models for implementing joint projects between NPOs and academia.

Business and Management Internships 2021-07-22

This book is written for advanced Earth Science students, geologists, petroleum engineers, and others who want to get quickly up to speed on the interpretation of reflection seismic data. It is a development of material given to students on the MSc course in Petroleum Geology at Aberdeen University and takes the form of a course manual rather than a systematic textbook. It can be used as a self-contained course for individual study or as the basis for a class programme. The book clarifies those aspects of the subject that students tend to find difficult.
