moving from hegemony to partnership in leadership when god created women and men the intention was for them to be partners with each other and to serve in the world as cocreators with god the story of human beings however has been impacted with culture and other social factors to create different forms of hegemonies these hegemonies have been key in values that create social injustices that are in all spheres of life but more so in women and men relationships in cases of leadership and in many cultures men have adopted attitudes that justify exclusion of women from leadership in religious circles it is justified by the ways texts are read and interpreted through the lens of culture if we begin from the premises of justice and believing in a god of justice then hegemonic ways of understating leadership should be null and void acknowledging that human beings are created in the image and likeness of god demands that we act differently what this has meant is to challenge injustice in leadership by men and women in partnership the circle of concerned african women theologians in africa where rev edith chemorion is a member has over the years provided safe spaces for mentoring women to research and write about the experiences of women but much more so to call for justice in all areas including the study of theological education and for leadership in the churches this has borne results because of the partnership of men and women reverend edith s contributions to the rallying call is that society moves from hegemony to partnership in all fronts but especially in offering leadership by all we are strong when we partner and we image god s will for society in partnership prof esther mombo lecturer faculty of theology st paul s university limuru kenya jesus did not die to save us from god he died because the romans did not tolerate charismatic teachers who attracted a lively following jesus attracted that following through his personal compassion his confrontational inclusivity and his skill in using laughter as a nonviolent weapon of mass disruption the gospel authors picked up jesus witty techniques they adeptly parodied the literary conventions of heroic biography laying out the kingdom of god in a point for point contrast with the empire of caesar augustus most of this contrast was jewish prophetic rant standard edition the god of the jews had always demanded justice for workers food for the hungry care for those unable to earn a living and an end to monopolizing natural resources for private and imperial profit jesus added a fourth and telling point god is nonviolent god smites no one god s loving kindness and compassionate presence embraces all of humanity equally we are all the children of god then and now that s a revolutionary claim it portrays our obligation to the common good as a sacred obligation it s owed to god in cultural terms that s the most potent variety of obligation this is the cultural heritage at risk from fundamentalism which portrays god as both crazy violent and vindictive in this volume authors alan bailey and dan o brien examine the full import of david hume s arguments and the context of the society in which his work came to fruition they analyze the nuanced nature of hume s philosophical discourse and provide an informed look into his position on the possible content and rational justification of religious belief the authors first detail the pressures and forms of repression that confronted any 18th century thinker wishing to challenge publicly the truth of christian theism from there they offer an overview of hume s writings on religion paying particular attention to the inter relationships between the various works they show that hume s writings on religion are best seen as an artfully constructed web of irreligious argument that seeks to push forward a radical outlook one that only emerges when the attention shifts from the individual sections of the web to its overall structure and context even though there is no explicit denial in any of hume s published writings or private correspondence of the existence of god the implications of his arguments often seem to point strongly towards atheism david hume was one of the leading british critics of christianity and all forms of religion at a time when public utterances or published writings denying the truth of christianity were liable to legal prosecution his philosophical and historical writings offer a sustained and remarkably open critique of religion that is unmatched by any previous author writing in english yet despite hume s widespread reputation amongst his contemporaries for extreme irreligion the subtle and measured manner in which he presents his position means that it remains far from clear how radical his views actually were
