the regional and transregional in romanesque europe considers the historiography and usefulness of regional categories and in so doing explores the strength durability mutability and geographical scope of regional and transregional phenomena in the romanesque period this book addresses the complex question of the significance of regions in the creation of romanesque particularly in relation to transregional and pan european artistic styles and approaches the categorization of romanesque by region was a cornerstone of 19th and 20th century scholarship albeit one vulnerable to the application of anachronistic concepts of regional identity individual chapters explore the generation and reception of forms the conditions that give rise to the development of transregional styles and the agencies that cut across territorial boundaries there are studies of regional styles in aquitaine castile sicily hungary and scandinavia workshops in worms and the welsh marches the transregional nature of liturgical furnishings the cultural geography of the new monastic orders metalworking in hildesheim and the valley of the meuse and the links which connect piemonte with conques the regional and transregional in romanesque europe offers a new vision of regions in the creation of romanesque relevant to archaeologists art historians and historians alike the cursed carolers in context explores the interplay between the forms and contexts in which the tale of the cursed carolers circulated and the meanings it had for medieval and early modern authors and audiences the story of the cursed carolers has circulated in europe since the eleventh century in this story a group of people in a village in saxony skip christmas mass to perform a circle dance in the cemetery only to be cursed and forced to keep dancing for a whole year by approaching the story in specific historical contexts this book shows how the story of the cursed carolers became a space in which medieval readers writers and listeners could debate the meaning and significance of a surprising variety of questions including ecclesiastical authority gender roles pastoral responsibility and even the conduct of crusades this consideration of the interplay between text and context sheds new light on how and why the story of the dancers achieved such popularity in the middle ages and how its meanings developed and changed throughout the period this book will appeal to scholars and students of medieval european history literature and dance as well as those interested in cultural history in this work which is both original and faithful to the magisterium of the catholic church the author develops a theological system that springs from an ontological relational understanding of the johannine passage catholic knowledge love and ecstasy in the theology of thomas gallus provides the first full study of thomas gallus d 1246 in english and represents a significant advance in his distinctive theology boyd taylor coolman argues that gallus distinguishes but never separates and intimately relates two international modalities in human consciousness the intellective and the affective both of which are forms of cognition coolman shows that gallus conceives these two cognitive modalities as co existing in an interdependent manner and that this reciprocity is given a particular character by gallus anthropological appropriation of the dionysian concept of hierarchy because gallus conceives of the soul as hierarchized on the model of the angelic hierarchy the intellect affect relationship is fundamentally governed by the dynamism of a dionysian hierarchy which has two simultaneous trajectories ascending and descending two crucial features are noteworthy in this regard in ascending firstly the lower is subsumed by the higher in descending secondly the higher communicates with the lower according to the nature of the lower when gallus posits a higher affective cognitio above an intellective cognitio at the highest point in the ascent accordingly this higher affective form both builds upon and sublimates the lower intellective form at the same time this affective cognitio descends back down into the soul both enriching its properly intellective capacity and also renewing the ascending movement in love for gallus then in the hierarchized soul a dynamic mutuality between intellect and affect emerges which he construes as a spiralling motion by which the soul unceasingly stretches beyond itself ecstatically in knowing and loving god the subject is an extraordinary 12th century carved walrus ivory cross that came into the collection of the metropolitan museum of art s cloisters collection in 1963 and is today the centerpiece of the collection the authors explore its construction imagery and inscriptions the context for its exceptional style and iconography its theological setting and use in the liturgy and its place in english romanesque art includes numerous color and black and white photos taken especially for the book annotation copyright by book news inc portland or 97147-0000 1-800-458-3437 1998 the authors trace the history of the abbey but focuses on the knowledge love and ecstasy in the theology of thomas gallus provides the first full study of thomas gallus d 1246 in english and represents a significant advance in his distinctive theology boyd taylor coolman argues that gallus distinguishes but never separates and intimately relates two international modalities in human consciousness the intellective and the affective both of which are forms of cognition coolman shows that gallus conceives these two cognitive modalities as co existing in an interdependent manner and that this reciprocity is given a particular character by gallus anthropological appropriation of the dionysian concept of hierarchy because gallus conceives of the soul as hierarchized on the model of the angelic hierarchy the intellect affect relationship is fundamentally governed by the dynamism of a dionysian hierarchy which has two simultaneous trajectories ascending and descending two crucial features are noteworthy in this regard in ascending firstly the lower is subsumed by the higher in descending secondly the higher communicates with the lower according to the nature of the lower when gallus posits a higher affective cognitio above an intellective cognitio at the highest point in the ascent accordingly this higher affective form both builds upon and sublimates the lower intellective form at the same time this affective cognitio descends back down into the soul both enriching its properly intellective capacity and also renewing the ascending
