baby drama and political scandal don't mix in this sequel to Suzetta Perkins's Behind the Veil. Margo Myles is getting ready to give birth to twins but she isn't sure who the father is: her soon-to-be ex-husband Jefferson Myles or her one-time fling Malik Mason. Malik is running for a state senate seat and no one is going to take the sweet smell of victory from him. Ivy Myles, Margo and Jefferson's eldest daughter, is moving back home. She's been estranged from her parents but a new love calls her back and her love is none other than Malik Mason. Malik intends to make Ivy his wife but will she be a distraction on his way to the senate? Scandal and politics always seem to make perfect bedfellows and Malik Mason must decide which woman he loves more: mother or daughter or risk ruining everything.

Life is meant to be lived. Books communicate ideas, yes, but they are more than that. The book you are holding along with Greg's previous writing, A Journey Shared (2005), invites you on a journey. It's the life he has lived over the past year or so, shared. It's the ups and the downs, not compressed into scholarly jargon but hopefully fresh and real and like a conversation at the corner cafe. There are some deep things in this book and some more light-hearted subjects ranging from the character of God (love, grace, mercy) to life with small kids to divorce.
