In 1939 Christopher Isherwood and W. H. Auden emigrated together to the United States. In spare, luminous prose these diaries describe Isherwood's search for a new life in California, his work as a screenwriter in Hollywood, his pacifism during World War II, and his friendships with such gifted artists and intellectuals as Garbo, Chaplin, Thomas Mann, Charles Laughton, Gielgud, Olivier, Richard Burton, and Aldous Huxley. Throughout this period, Isherwood continued to write novels and sustain his literary friendships with E. M. Forster, Somerset Maugham, Tennessee Williams, and others. He turned to his diaries several times a week to record jokes and gossip, observations about his adopted country, philosophy, and mystical insights. His devotion to his diary was a way of accounting for himself; he used it as both a discipline and a release.

Christopher Isherwood Diaries Volume 1

A Concordance to the Works of Christopher Marlowe

1979

Contributions to this volume explore the idea of Marlowe as a working artist in keeping with John Addington Symonds' characterization of him as a sculptor-poet throughout the body of his work, including not only the poems and plays but also his forays into translation and imitation. A distinguished company of established and emerging literary scholars traces how Marlowe conceives an idea, shapes and refines it, then remakes and remodels it, only to refashion it further in his writing process. These essays necessarily overlap with one another in the categories of lives, stage, and page, which signals their interdependent nature regarding questions of authorship, theater, and performance history, as well as interpretive issues within the works themselves. The contributors interpret and analyze the disputed facts of Marlowe's life, the textual difficulties that emerge from the staging of his plays, the critical investigations arising from analyses of individual works, and their relationship to those of his contemporaries. The collection engages in new ways the controversies and complexities of its subject's life and art; it reflects the flourishing state of Marlowe studies as it shapes the twenty-first century conception of the poet and playwright as master craftsman.

contending that criticism of marlowe s plays has been limited by humanist conceptions of tragedy this book engages with trauma theory especially psychoanalytic trauma theory to offer a fresh critical perspective within which to make sense of the tension in marlowe s plays between the tragic and the traumatic the author argues that tragedies are trauma narratives narratives of wounding however in marlowe s plays a traumatic aesthetics disrupts the closure that tragedy seeks to enact martin s fresh reading of massacre at paris which is often dismissed by critics as a bad tragedy presents the play as deliberately breaking the conventions of the tragic genre in order to enact a traumatic aesthetics that pulls its audience into one of the early modern period s most notorious collective traumatic events the massacre of french huguenots in paris in 1572 the chapters on marlowe s six other plays similarly argue that throughout marlowe s drama tragedy is held in tension with and disrupted by the aesthetics of trauma

kendall s method is not to give full scale interpretations of individual plays and poems or to attempt a conventional canterbury cambridge london appraisal of marlowe s life but rather to take the reader along a rough chronological path that traces the life of richard baines picking suitable spots to break off the narrative and analyze marlowe s writings and actions and reinterpret known events connected with his life and with baines s especially where they overlap by offering fresh primary evidence kendall is able to suggest new ways in which each influenced the life of the other especially how baines influenced and affected marlowe book jacket
