Robinson discuss international financial reporting standards including characteristics particular to the Asian region. Tan and Robinson's combined background in academia and Asian finance give them a multi-modal perspective and position them as top authorities on the topic. In the book, they address issues such as detection of irregularities independent of particular accounting rules, the most common irregularities in the Asian market, similarities and differences between U.S. and Asian accounting techniques, an overarching framework for irregularity detection, and the book uses real-world examples to illustrate the concepts presented, with the focus on Asian companies. As the first ever in-depth study on manipulation and irregularities in the Asian market, Asian Financial Statement Analysis: Detecting Financial Irregularities is uniquely positioned to be a valuable resource in the move toward the next phase of global reporting.

for old and new studies in decision making and risk analysis this book should stand at ttle watershed studies of conflict resolution and public policy will surely now have to take account of the model investigation provided by the iiasa team and many things will not be the same again this is a report of inquiries into the siting of liquefied energy gas leg facilities in the federal republic of germany the netherlands the united kingdom and the united states the risks of transporting this highly combustible stuff and the economic benefits of being able to bring a natural energy source from one side of the globe to the other holding it and piping it out as needed make leg a model case for studying the public response to dangerous technology the dangers of leg are differ ent from those of nuclear power for instance where the response too often becomes entangled with the fear of nuclear war the dangers of leg include unco trollable explosions rather than insidious contami nation but the degree of dangerousness is very much of the same order as that of nuclear power and is at least as difficult to assess in four different countries the constitutional procedures involved in obtaining approval of nuclear or leg facilities are on record the four case histories here are a model for comparative study of conflict resolu tion the period over which the negotiations developed is much the same discusses the history of the u s bureau of reclamation s operation and management of the colorado river on behalf of the secretary of the interior from 1979 through 2008 details the political legal institutional and other instruments developed to address pressing issues faced by colorado river basin water users and managers reflective of its era the 2008

volume has an increased focus on coordinated operations of the river in both the upper and lower basins on environmental matters on the relationship with mexico and on native american water settlements this book examines logistics systems in an integrated way its goal is to describe and show how to find rational structures for logistics systems considering all the relevant aspects building on an understanding of the simplest logistical system with only one origin and one destination the book treats problems with many origins and one destination many destinations and one origin and many origins and many destinations this is done for systems with and without transshipments the solutions and methodologies presented in the book are particularly helpful in instances where detailed data are not available and when time is of the essence the first summer study at iiasa brought together a cross section of individuals from different disciplines and nationalities all the participants have had an interest in the role of risk analysis given the institutional arrangements which guide decision making for new technologies this book contains edited versions of the papers presented at the meeting as well as a transcript of the discussions which took place it provides the ingredients for a broader framework for studying the problems associated with technology and society where risk is representative of a much wider set of concerns than simply the probability and consequences of a hazardous accident the bundesministerium fuer forschung und technologie has an interest in promoting risk and safety research because of these new developments in society over the past ten years in particular there has been a diminished confidence in experts statements on risk and a realization that many of the events which are being examined are not subject to detailed scientific analysis there has also been an increasing recognition that distinctions must be made between analysis of the risk associated with an event and people s values and preferences another important development is the concern by the public that they participate more fully in the decision process on these issues these concerns were articulated in both the papers and the open discussions at the summer study investigation provided by the iiasa team and many things will not be the same again this is a report of inquiries into the siting of liquefied energy gas leg facilities in the federal republic of germany the netherlands the united kingdom and the united states the risks of transporting this highly combustible stuff and the economic benefits of being able to bring a natural energy source from one side of the globe to the other holding it and piping it out as needed make leg a model case for studying the public response to dangerous technology the dangers of leg are different from those of nuclear power for instance where the response too often becomes entangled with the fear of nuclear war the dangers of leg include uncontrollable explosions rather than insidious contamination but the degree of dangerousness is very much of the same order as that of nuclear power and is at least as difficult to assess in four different countries the constitutional procedures involved in obtaining approval of nuclear or leg facilities are on record the four case histories here are a model for comparative study of conflict resolution the period over which the negotiations developed is much the same the first summer study at iiasa brought together a cross section of individuals from different disciplines and nationalities all the participants have had an interest in the role of risk analysis given the institutional arrangements which guide decision making for new technologies this book contains edited versions of the papers presented at the meeting as well as a transcript of the discussions which took place it provides the ingredients for a broader framework for studying the problems associated with technology and society where risk is representative of a much wider set of concerns than simply the probability and consequences of a hazardous accident the bundesministerium fuer forschung und technologie has an interest in promoting risk and safety research because of these new developments in society over the past ten years in particular there has been a diminished confidence in experts statements on risk and a realization that many of the events which are being examined are not subject to detailed scientific analysis there has also been an increasing recognition that distinctions must be made between analysis of the risk associated with an event and people s values and preferences another important development is the concern by the public that they participate more fully in the decision process on these issues these concerns were articulated in both the papers and the open discussions at the summer study
