Dresden in One Day 2014-04-20 victor gregg is the most remarkable spokesman for the war generation dan snow in slaughterhouse five kurt vonnegut fictionalised his time as a prisoner of war in dresden in 1945 vonnegut was imprisoned in a cellar while the firestorm raged through the city wiping out generations of innocent lives victor gregg remained above ground throughout the firebombing this is his true eyewitness account of that week in february 1945 already a seasoned soldier with the rifle brigade gregg joined the 10th parachute regiment in 1944 he was captured at arnhem where he volunteered to be sent to a work camp rather than become another faceless number in the huge pow camps with two failed escape attempts under his belt gregg was eventually caught sabotaging a factory and sent to dresden for execution before gregg could be executed the british royal air force and the united states army air forces dropped more than 3 900 tons of high explosive bombs and incendiary devices on dresden in four air raids over two days in february 1945 the resulting firestorm destroyed six square miles of the city centre 25 000 people mostly civilians were estimated to have been killed post war discussion of whether or not the attacks were justified has led to the bombing becoming one of the moral questions of the second world war in gregg's first hand narrative personal and punchy he describes the trauma and carnage of the dresden bombing after the raid he spent five days helping to recover a city of innocent civilians thousands of whom had died in the fire storm trapped underground in human ovens as order was restored his life was once more in danger and he escaped to the east spending the last weeks of the war with the russians

Richard Wagner's Letters to His Dresden Friends 1890 during 1942 and 1943 the striking power of raf bomber command was transformed by the arrival of heavy bombers advanced navigation and blind bombing systems and new tactics to concentrate the bombers over the target and swamp the german defences by october 1944 most of germany s cities were in ruins yet the bombing continued to intensify reaching unprecedented levels in the final seven months of the air campaign the value of further area raids was questioned during the opening months of 1945 yet the allies destroyed the remaining cities in a bid to hasten the end of the war the handful of german cities still largely unscathed in early february 1945 included dresden which was obliterated on 13 february ten days later the south german city of pforzheim was destined to suffer the same fate this book commemorates the efforts of the aircrew members who risked their lives consolidating a host of intriguing first hand accounts it also considers pforzheim as a representative community under national socialist rule the city s survivors remember the horror of the raid and its aftermath including eventual occupation by french colonial troops and subsequently american forces tony does an admirable job of presenting historical context when considering actions in times of extreme trauma and his narrative offers an intriguing engaging and poignant evocation of the closing months of bomber command s war
