The Imagery of Writing in the Early Works of Paul Auster

2017-01-06

the early works of paul auster convey the loneliness of the individual fully committed to the work of writing as if he were confined within the book that dominates his life all through auster s poetry essays and fiction the work of writing is an actual physical effort an effective construction as if the words aligned in the poem text were stones to place in a row when building a wall or some other structure in stone this book studies the symbolism of the genetic substance of the world re built through the work of writing inside the walls of the room closed in space and time though open to an unlimited mental expansion paul auster s work is an aesthetic literary self reflection about the mission of writing the writer character is like an inexperienced god whose hands may originate either cosmos or chaos life or death hence auster s recurring meditation on the work and the power of writing at the same time an autobiography and a self criticism the stones the wall and the room the words the page and the book are the ontological structure of the imaginary cosmos generated in paul auster s mind like a real world born of the magma of words lost in another interior world

The World that is the Book

the world that is the book offers an in depth analysis of paul auster s fiction it explores the rich literary and cultural sources that auster taps into in order to create compelling stories that investigate the nature of language the workings of chance and the individual s complex relations with the world at large whereas most auster criticism has concentrated on readings of individual novels this book emphasizes the continuity in auster s writing by discussing throughout the philosophical underpinnings that lead the author to question the boundaries separating the fictional from the factual and the real from the imagined

Beyond the Red Notebook

The Invention of Solitude

one day there is life and then suddenly it happens there is death so begins paul auster's moving and personal meditation on fatherhood the first section portrait of an invisible man reveals auster's memories and feelings after the death of his father in the book of memory the perspective shifts to auster's role as a father the narrator contemplates his separation from his son his dying grandfather and the solitary nature of writing and story telling

The Red Notebook

in this acrobatic and virtuosic collection paul auster traces the compulsion to make literature in a selection of interviews as well as in the essay the red notebook itself auster reflects upon his own work on the need to break down the boundary between living and writing and on the use of certain genre conventions to penetrate matters of memory and identity the red notebook both illuminates and undermines our accepted notions about literature and guides us towards a finer understanding of the dangerously high stakes involved in writing it also includes paul auster's impassioned essay a prayer for salman rushdie as well as a set of striking and bittersweet reminiscences collected under the apposite title why write

Crises

paul auster's works enjoy a lasting popularity as examples of late twentieth century american fiction auster criticism however has so far mainly focused on a few selected writings notably the novels of the new york trilogy and moon palace and their characteristics the writer's overall theme as well as his recent works are rarely taken into consideration this study closes the gap by providing a comprehensive appraisal of this author's complete oeuvre by virtue of its detailed analysis of paul auster's central theme and delineation of its development the writer's works can be positioned within the framework of contemporary american literature and a tendency within the general development of postmodernist literature can be made out in the beginning everything was alive the smallest objects were endowed with beating hearts having recalled his life through the story of his physical self in winter journal internationally best selling novelist paul auster now remembers the experience of his development from within through the encounters of his interior self with the outer world as well as through a selection of the revealing letters he sent to his first wife acclaimed author lydia davis an impressionistic portrait of a writer coming of age report from the interior moves from auster s baby s eye view of the man in the moon to his childhood worship of the movie cowboy buster crabbe to the composition of his first poem at the age of nine to his dawning awareness of the injustices of american life report from the interior charts auster s moral political and intellectual journey as he inches his way toward adulthood through the post war fifties and into the turbulent 1960s paul auster evokes the sounds smells and tactile sensations that marked his early life and the many images that came at him including moving images he adored cartoons he was in love with films until at its unique climax the book breaks away from prose into pure imagery the final section of report from the interior recapitulates the first three parts told in an album of pictures at once a story of the times and the story of the emerging consciousness of a renowned literary artist this four part work answers the challenge of autobiography in ways rarely if ever seen before chosen by paul auster out of the four thousand stories submitted to his radio programme on national public radio these 180 stories provide a wonderful portrait of america in the twentieth century the requirement for selection was that each of the stories should be true and each of the writers should not have been previously published the collection that has emerged provides a richly varied and authentic voice for the american people whose lives loves griefs regrets joys and sense of humour are vividly and honestly recounted throughout and adeptly organised by auster into themed sections the section composed of war stories stretches as far back as the civil war still the defining moment in american history while the sequence of meditations conclude the volume with a true and abiding sense of transcendence the resultant anthology is both an enduring hymn to the strange everyday of contemporary american life and a masterclass in the art of storytelling

the following book explores the intertextual relationship between paul auster s first and most remarkable work the new york trilogy 1987 and the works of certain american and european writers who shaped this novel and auster s future works auster s the new york trilogy is a novel formed by an intertextual dialogue which in some cases it is explicit mentioning authors and books intentionally and in others implicit provoked by auster s admiration for authors such as samuel beckett or product of his role as a translator as it occurs with maurice blanchot these two different ways of intertextuality essentially show auster s influence of the american renaissance samuel beckett s fiction and the work of the writer and critic maurice blanchot in these terms this book proposes an exhaustive analysis of city of glass and herman melville s bartleby the scrivener ghosts and edgar allan poe s william wilson and the locked room and nathaniel hawthorne s fanshawe the two last chapters also offer a thorough analysis of the whole trilogy in comparison to samuel beckett s trilogy molloy malone dies and the unnamable and finally introduces a study of the trilogy as a fictionalization of maurice blanchot s literary theory

one of the great american prose stylists of our time new york times auster really does possess the wand of the enchanter new york review of books the new york trilogy is perhaps the most astonishing work by one of america s most consistently astonishing writers the trilogy is three cleverly interconnected novels that exploit the elements of standard detective fiction and achieve a new genre that is all the more gripping for its starkness it is a riveting work of detective fiction worthy of raymond chandler and at the same time a profound and unsettling existentialist enquiry in the tradition of kafka or borges in each story the search for clues leads to remarkable coincidences in the universe as the simple act of trailing a man ultimately becomes a startling investigation of what it means to be human the new york trilogy is the modern novel at its finest a truly bold and arresting work of fiction with something to transfix and astound every reader marks a new departure for the american novel observer a shatteringly clever piece of work utterly gripping written with an acid sharpness that leaves an indelible dent in the back of the mind sunday telegraph

a survey of the work of a brooklyn author best known for mixing absurdism and crime fiction understanding paul auster is a comprehensive companion to the work of a writer who effectively balances a particular combination of jewish american identity and european sensibility across an impressive breadth of novels screenplays essays and poetry james peacock views auster as chiefly concerned with the individual s problematic relationship with language a theme present from the enigmatic poetry of auster s early career to the more inclusive and optimistic imaginings of the films smoke and blue in the face and the novels timbuktu the brooklyn follies and man in the dark peacock s study maps the evolution of auster s fiction and its forms goals and influences peacock argues that the key event for any auster character is the realization that language should not be restricted to documenting reality but should instead be embraced for its metaphorical qualities and constantly shifting nature peacock finds in auster a view of language as inherently ethical and communal because to use language creatively one must be immersed in the plurality of experience and listen to the voices of others in celebrated works such as the invention of solitude and the new york trilogy these voices include auster s literary antecedents increasingly in his recent work however they include those of ordinary people peacock suggests that in the aftermath of 9 11 much of auster s fiction places even greater importance on sympathetic relations with ordinary individuals and advocates through artistic endeavors the merits of connecting with others

inhaltsangabe abstract paul auster s new york trilogy published in one volume for the first time in england in 1988 and in the u s in 1990 has been widely categorised as detective fiction among literary scholars and critics there is however a striking diversity and lack of consensus regarding the classification of the trilogy within the existing genre forms of the detective novel among others auster s stories are described as metaanti detective fiction mysteries about mysteries a strangely humorous working of the detective novel very soft boiled a metamystery glassy little jigsaws a mixture between the detective story and the nouveau roman a metaphysical detective story a deconstruction of the detective novel antidetective fiction a late example of the anti detective genre and being related to hard boiled novels by authors like hammett and chandler such a striking lack of agreement within the secondary literature has inspired me to write this paper it does not however elaborate further an this diversity of viewpoints although they all seem to have a certain validity and underline the richness and diversity of auster s detective trilogy neither do i intend to coin a new term for auster s detective fiction i would rather place the new york trilogy within a more general and open literary form namely postmodern detective fiction this classifies paul auster as an american writer who is part of the generation that immediately followed the classical literary movement of american postmodernism of the 60s and 70s his writing demonstrates that he has been influenced by the revolutionary and innovative postmodern concepts characterised by the notion of anything goes an a planet of multiplicity as well as by french poststructuralism he may however be distinguished from a traditional postmodern writer through a certain coherence in the narrative discourse a neo realistic approach and by showing a certain responsibility for social and moral aspects going beyond mere metafictional and subversive elements many of the ideas of postmodernism were formulated in theoretical literary texts of the 60s and 70s and based an formal experiments include the attempt of subverting the ability of language to refer truthfully to the world and a radical turning away from coherent narrative discourse and plot these ideas seem to have been intemalized by the new generation of postmodern writers of the 80s to such
