Win from the Back: Memoirs of a Racecar Mechanic

2022-12-09

This is a mechanics story. Lew has worked on a variety of cars and racecars throughout his career. This is also the story of a little boy who used to listen to the Indianapolis 500 on the radio in his little hometown in Pennsylvania and dream about going there. This is the story of a man whose dream came true when he walked through the gates of the Indianapolis Speedway for the first time in 1970. It is also the story of a family, their friends, and a lifestyle. Lew's wife Joan always said life with Lew has been interesting. I never knew what to expect. That is the truth.

Pulling Back the Curtain on Qualitative Research

This book presents a fresh approach to poverty alleviation by bridging the fields of international development and social entrepreneurship. The authors present a six-step model for developing an IP business positioning strategy that allows developing country producers to position themselves better as owners of retail brands in foreign market countries. Readers will learn how producers can control the supply chain including distribution to retail stores focusing on Africa and least developed countries (LDCs). The authors demonstrate methods of utilizing intellectual property tools: producer ownership, market positioning, and branding for lucrative outcomes. Extensive research provides readers with a thorough understanding of what it means to work smarter in a developing business. While a rich set of international cases offers insight into the practical applications of brand positioning, trademarks, and licenses, with a dozen online workbooks to outline methodology, skills, tools, and case studies, social entrepreneurship for development will be a valuable resource for any student of social entrepreneurship or international development.

Praise for chocolates on the pillow aren't enough. Jonathan recognizes that in today's internet-fed, savvy consumer world, it is the people-to-people connections, regardless of price point, that differentiate a customer's experience. Gimmicks come and go, but without sincere and caring people delivering the overall experience from start to finish, well, it's true: chocolates on the pillow are not enough. A great read. David Neeleman, founder and CEO of JetBlue Airways Corporation: "If you don't work for your customer, you're not doing your job. Who better to turn to for lessons in great customer experiences than Jonathan Tisch? He has long been one of the most respected leaders in travel and hospitality, and when it comes to treating all customers like guests, to put it simply, he gets it. And then some." Millard S. Drexler, chairman and CEO of J. Crew Group: "What brings customers back to my restaurants? Why do viewers watch my TV show? It's more than BAM! It's delivering a kicked-up customer experience. Tisch is the guy who knows how to do this best. His book...

leaded glass is a type of glass in which the lead has replaced some of the silicon dioxide in the glass to increase its refractive index and dispersion. This type of glass is used in many applications, including optical lenses, prisms, and decorative glassware. The lead content in the glass is typically between 20% and 30% by weight. The addition of lead to the glass makes it heavier and more dense, which is why it is often used in applications where weight and density are important. Additionally, leaded glass has a higher refractive index than regular glass, which makes it useful for optical applications. The glass is also more resistant to scratches and damage than regular glass. The most common type of leaded glass is called crystal, and it is often used in decorative glassware and chandeliers. The glass is also used in many scientific and industrial applications. The glass is made by melting a mixture of silica, lead oxide, and other materials at a high temperature. The resulting glass is then cooled and cut into the desired shape. The glass is then polished to give it a smooth, clear finish. The glass is then used in the applications mentioned above. The glass is a unique material with many useful properties. It is a great choice for many applications, and it is sure to continue to be used for many years to come.
