Swimming Studies 2012-07-05

winner of the 2012 national book critics circle award autobiography swimming studies is a brilliantly original meditative memoir that explores the worlds of competitive and recreational swimming from her training for the olympic trials as a teenager to enjoying pools and beaches around the world as an adult leanne shapton offers a fascinating glimpse into the private often solitary realm of swimming her spare and elegant writing reveals an intimate narrative of suburban adolescence spent underwater in a discipline that continues to inspire shapton s work as an artist and author her illustrations throughout the book offer an intuitive perspective on the landscapes and imagery of the sport shapton s emphasis is on the smaller moments of athletic pursuit rather than its triumphs for the accomplished athlete aspiring amateur or habitual practicer this remarkable work of written and visual sketches propels the reader through a beautifully personal and universally appealing exercise in reflection

In Cars: on Diana 2022-04

a visual essay a poem a study of princess diana image celebrity and identity artist and writer leanne shapton has painted princess diana from the hundreds of photographs of her getting out of cars examining her iconography and meaning in gesture and form in cars on diana is about photography celebrity identity facsimile and where to hold the beheld it is also an obsessive and loving collection of studies abstracted and haunting leanne shapton is one of the most broadly creative and gifted people at work today a true artist both visual and verbal david rakoff leanne shapton writes with such curiosity ruefulness intelligence and grace sheila heti a strange and evocative poem nesting in a sequence of paintings both the art and the words examining diana having her photograph taken getting out of cars each path taking us inevitably to the final car ride like a gentler kinder j g ballard leanne takes us on a journey into cars and iconography and the spirit of ecstasy neil gaiman shapton is a wonder by restricting herself to the narrowest of subject matters she has made something utterly new her essay poem on diana and cars is as elegant and resonant as her pictures a fascinating remarkable beautiful book nick laird through murk and blur shapton sucks the color from the too familiar shapes and surfaces photographic images yield she amplifies the overexposed surfaces we use to claim ownership of self and others embedding us in photography s vanishing games taryn simon in cars is both a silent movie flipbook and an essay poem its major theme is diana but it identifies something specific and uncanny and universal the pathos of glamour the lack of sovereignty that s encoded in our paparazzi images of celebrity women adam thirlwell

Seeking a Home for Poetry in a Nomadic World 2020-01-28

This thoroughly researched overview on one of the most absorbing literary phenomena of recent decades, the trespassing of cultural and linguistic borders, departs from the canonical point of view offered by the English works of the Nobel laureate Russian American poet and essayist Joseph Brodsky to approach the work of the emerging Hungarian English poet Ágnes Lehoczky through the epistemological filter offered by some guiding texts such as Bauman, Hall, Braidotti, and many others. This study allows the reader to discover the recounting of a search for an identity where the adoption of English as an artistic vehicle is only the first thread that unites the two nomadic authors striving to locate language and identity. Brodsky and Lehoczky face the limits of doing so due to the fluid and nomadic nature of language itself. This suggests, if not answers, then new ways of expression which draw the language of our future.

Athletes Breaking Bad 2020-07-01

at their basic level sporting events are about numbers wins and losses percentages and points shots and saves clocks and countdowns however sports narratives quickly leave the realm of statistics the stories we tell and retell sometimes for decades make sports dramatic and compelling just like any great drama sports imply conflict not just battles on the field of play but clashes of personalities goals and strategies in telling these stories we create heroes but we also create villains this book is about the latter those players who transgress norms and expectations and who we label the bad boys of sports using a variety of approaches these 13 new essays examine the cultural social and rhetorical implications of sports villainy each chapter focuses on a different athlete and sport questioning issues such as how notorious sports figures are defined to be bad within particular sports and within the larger culture the role media play in creating antiheroes fan reactions when players cross boundaries and how those boundaries shift depending on the athlete's gender sexuality and race
