jennifer egan described her pulitzer prize winning novel a visit from the goon squad as a combination of proust and the sopranos in rereading the book ivan kreilkamp takes egan up on her comparison showing how it blends a concern with the status of the novel in the twenty first century with an elegiac meditation on how we experience the passage of time kreilkamp a former music critic examines how egan s characters turn to rock and especially punk in search of community and meaning he considers what the novel s portrayal of music says about the role of art in contemporary culture as digitization makes older technologies obsolete combining personal and critical reflection he reveals how a visit from the goon squad articulates and responds to the sense of loss many feel as cherished physical objects are replaced with immaterial data for kreilkamp egan s novel compellingly combines the psychological realism of the nineteenth century novel with more recent and transient forms such as the celebrity magazine profile or a powerpoint presentation to provide a self reflective diagnosis of the decay and endurance of literature arranged like egan s novel into a and b sides this book highlights not only how a visit from the goon squad speaks to our mass media and digital present but also its page turning pleasure

a comprehensive overview into digital literary studies that equips readers to navigate the difficult contentions in this space the literary agenda is a series of short polemical monographs about the importance of literature and of reading in the wider world and about the state of literary education inside schools and universities the category of the literary has always been contentious what is clear however is how increasingly it is dismissed or is unrecognised as a way of thinking or an arena for thought it is sceptically challenged from within for example by the sometimes rival claims of cultural history contextualized explanation or media studies it is shaken from without by even greater pressures by economic exigency and the severe social attitudes that can follow from it by technological change that may leave the traditional forms of serious human communication looking merely antiquated for just these reasons this is the right time for renewal to start reinvigorated work into the meaning and value of literary reading you may have heard of the digital humanities and what you may have heard may not have been good yet like an oncoming storm the relentless growth of the use of digital methods for the study of literature seems inevitable this book gives an insight into the ways in which digital approaches can be used to study literature and the ways in which humanistic study can be used to explore digital literature examining its subject across the axes of authorship space and visualization maps and place distance and history and ethical approaches to the digital humanities this book introduces newcomers to the topic while also offering plenty for seasoned digital humanities pros combining original research with third party case studies and examples this book will appeal both to students and researchers across all levels who wish to learn about digital literary studies this book argues that narrative literature very often if not always include significant amounts of what appears to be extra literary material in form and in content and that we too often ignore this dimension of literature it offers an up to date overview and discussion of intermedial theory and it facilitates a much needed dialogue between the burgeoning field of intermedial studies on the one side and the already well developed methods of literary analysis on the other the book aims at working these two fields together into a productive working method it makes evident in a methodologically succinct way the necessity of approaching literature with an intermedial terminology by way of a relatively simple but never the less productive three step analytic method in four in depth case studies of anglophone texts ranging from nabokov chandler and tobias wolff to jennifer egan it demonstrates that medialities matter while paratexts among them headnotes footnotes or endnotes have never been absent from american literature the last two decades have seen an explosion of the phenomenon including mock scholarly footnotes to an extent that they seem to take over the text itself in this special focus we shall attempt to find the reasons for this astonishing development in our first diachronic section we shall explore such texts as might have fostered the present boom from fictions by edgar allan poe to vladimir nabokov to mark z danielewski the second synchronic section will concentrate on paratexts by david foster wallace perhaps the father of the post postmodern footnote as well as those to be found in novels by bennett sims jennifer egan and junot diaz among others it appears that while paratexts definitely point to a high degree of self reflexivity in the author they equally draw attention to the textual and authorial functions of the works in which they exist they can thus cause a reflection on the boundaries between genres like fiction faction and autobiography as well as serving to highlight a host of pedagogical and social concerns that exist in the interstices between fiction and reality special focus omission edited by patrick gill throughout literary history and in many cultures we encounter an astute use of conspicuous absences to conjure an imagined reality into a recipient s mind the term omission as used in the present study then demarcates a common artistic phenomenon a silence blank or absence introduced against the recipient s generic or experiential expectations but which nonetheless frequently encapsulates the tenor of the work as a whole such omissions can be employed for their affective potential when emotions represented or evoked by the text are deemed to be beyond words they can be employed to raise epistemological questions as when an omission marks the limits of what can be known ethical questions can also be approached by means of omissions as when a character s voice is omitted for instance finally omission always carries within it the potential to reflect on the media and genres on which it is brought to bear as its efficacy depends on the recipient's generic expectations. Omission is frequently characterized by a high degree of meta-discursiveness. This volume investigates the various strategies with which the phenomenon of omission is employed across a range of textual forms and in different cultures to conclusively argue for its status as a highly effective and near-universal form of artistic signification.

since the mid nineteenth century there has been a notable acceleration in the development of the techniques used to confirm identity from fingerprints to photographs to dna we have been rapidly amassing novel means of identification even as personal individual identity remains a complex chimera the art of identification examines how such processes are entangled within a wider sphere of cultural identity formation against the backdrop of an unstable modernity and the rapid rise and expansion of identificatory techniques this volume makes the case that identity and identification are mutually imbricated and that our best understanding of both concepts and technologies comes through the interdisciplinary analysis of science bureaucratic infrastructures and cultural artifacts with contributions from literary critics cultural historians scholars of film and new media a forensic anthropologist and a human bioarcheologist this book reflects upon the relationship between the bureaucratic scientific and technologically determined techniques of identification and the cultural contexts of art literature and screen media in doing so it opens the interpretive possibilities surrounding identification and pushes us to think about it as existing within a range of cultural influences that complicate the precise formulation meaning and reception of the concept in addition to the editors the contributors to this volume include dorothy butchard patricia e chu jonathan finn rebecca gowland liv hausken matt houlbrook rob lederer andrew mangham victoria stewart and tim thompson
