pastiche sounds like something you might eat but the official definition is an artistic work in a style that imitates that of another work artist or period a pastiche can be respectful or can descend to parody over the course of his long career f. paul wilson often has been invited to work with the characters and realms created by iconic writers in varied genres usually he would decline but sometimes the temptation to play in a favorite author's sandbox was too great and he gave in as a fan of all the chosen authors he approached the characters and worlds they created with the greatest respect so in that sense his pastiches are also homages h. p. lovecraft mary w. shelley ray bradbury richard matheson edgar rice burroughs sax rohmer dashiehl hammett arthur conan doyle who could say no to working with their creations you'll find them all and more in other sandboxes stories with characters and places shared with writers living and dead by f. paul wilson
