sanity do everything to keep it this is an entirely fictional account written in a first person narration which adumbrates the number of conundrums that a psychoanalyst has to navigate through this book investigates the politics of identity in asia and explores how different groups of people inside and outside asia have attempted to relate to the alterity of the places and cultures in the region through various modes literary and filmic representation scholarly knowledge and so on and at different points in time although coming from different perspectives like literary criticism film studies geography cultural history and political science the contributors collectively argue that asian otherness is more than the dialectical interplay between the western self and one of its many others and more than just the orientalist discourse writ large rather they demonstrate the existence of multiple levels of inter asian and intercultural contact and consciousness that both subvert as much as they consolidate the dominant western core asian periphery framework that structures what the mainstream assumes to be knowledge of asia with chapters covering a wealth of topics from korea and its cold war history to australia s asian identity crisis this book will be of huge interest to anyone interested in critical asian studies asian ethnicity postcolonialism and asia cultural studies leong yew is an assistant professor in the university scholars programme national university of singapore he is the author of the disjunctive empire of international relations 2003 let your imagination sink chiller that ranks among greenhall s best writing in shirley jackson s precise sharp chilly prose greenhall delivers a slippery book that can t be pinned down all about spectral photography little dead girls snowbound small towns and the disquieting proposition that maybe god is not civilized grady hendrix author of paperbacks from hell a very well orchestrated eerie tale publishers weekly in this book the author takes a fresh look at horror film series as series and presents an understanding of how the genre thrived in this format for a large portion of its history it sheds light on older films such as the universal and the hammer series films on dracula frankenstein and the mummy as well as putting more recent series into perspective such as the nightmare on elm street films a well rounded review of these films and investigation into their success as a format this useful volume originally published in 1991 offers an attempt to understand the marriage of horror and the series film with its pluses as well as minuses in 1962

following two losing seasons coach john mckay was fighting for his job the 1962 team was undersized but smart quick and tough although underdogs in four games including the rose bowl the trojans finished with an 11 0 record and defeated wisconsin in the rose bowl and become national champions although the 1962 trojans were the least talented of coach mckay s four national championship teams their success enabled usc to once again become a football power you ll meet the players from this team and learn about their joys and sorrows as well their successes and failures the team included tempestuous end prince hal bedsole who still holds usc s season and career records for most yards per reception fleet willie brown whose clutch plays on offense and defense preserved an undefeated season fiery trojan captain marv marinovich whose athletic techniques have become legendary and fred hill whose daughter kim became the inspiration for the ronald mcdonald house in a wide ranging series of introductory essays written by some of the leading figures in the field this book is one of the most comprehensive and up to date guides on the diverse and murky world of the gothic in literature film and culture it was then that i first noticed her eyes staring out at me from the glass front of the microwave then from the windows over the sink then from the glass of the oven door her eyes were large with a blue sheen to them the pupils deep and dilated i tried to cry out to mia or amber but the horrific pain in my head and jaw was worsening it felt like someone was standing on my face to force my mouth shut i tried to move but i was suddenly so weak that i couldn t drag my feet across the polished kitchen floor my mouth felt so very dry and i was desperately hot and dizzy her eyes were still watching me gazing at me whichever way i turned strangely she looked as though she was in pain as well as though we were silently screaming to each other through the glass i gazed helplessly into her blue eyes as her back arched into an unnaturally tight knot she looked like a puppet whose strings had been wrenched tight by its master i felt her pain travel through the muscles of my own back as i uncontrollably writhed and twisted onto the cold kitchen floor where i mercifully lost consciousness a haunting chilling debut from ken nelson in the horror genre this massive collection of original stories and articles inspired by the cthulhu mythos created by h p lovecraft was published in japan in 2002 as a two volume set under the name hishinkai the list of contributing This is a gripping story of alternate realities and one man's descent into madness as he tries to escape the physical embodiments of the demons of his past whilst they keep him in a prison constructed of his own fractured psyche. Full of twists, frightening revelations, and profound but maddening insights into a world that may or may not even be real, Shutter Island meets Silent Hill meets Stephen King's survivor-type psychological horror on a new level when all you have is your sanity. Do everything to keep it.

This book investigates the politics of identity in Asia and explores how different groups of people inside and outside Asia have attempted to relate to the alterity of the places and cultures in the region through various modes: literary and filmic representation, scholarly knowledge, and so on, and at different points in time. Although coming from different perspectives like literary criticism, film studies, geography, cultural history, and political science, the contributors collectively argue that Asian otherness is more than the dialectical interplay between the Western self and one of its many others, and more than just the orientalist discourse. It writes large rather than they demonstrate the existence of multiple levels of inter-Asian and intercultural contact and consciousness that both subvert as much as they consolidate the dominant Western core-Asian periphery framework that structures what the mainstream assumes to be knowledge of Asia. With chapters covering a wealth of topics from Korea and its Cold War history to Australia's Asian identity crisis, this book will be of huge interest to anyone interested in critical Asian studies, Asian ethnicity, postcolonialism, and Asian cultural studies. Leong Yew is an assistant professor in the University Scholars Programme, National University of Singapore. He is the author of The Disjunctive Empire of International Relations (2003).

Let your imagination sink deep into more than a dozen classic tales of dark horror by H.P. Lovecraft. The stories of H.P. Lovecraft have been a source of fascination for readers since they were published in the early twentieth century, and legions of fans continue to reinvent his dark and fantastical world to this day. This collection of short stories by the master of the macabre contains more than twenty of his most popular works, including The Call of Cthulhu, The Shadow Over Innsmouth, and The Dunwich Horror. Each story will leave the reader feeling unsettled and uncertain, but also appreciative of the unique elements that Lovecraft introduced to the literary world. This makes a perfect gift for fans of Lovecraft's work and the HBO series Lovecraft Country.

The highly anticipated sequel to the phenomenal best-seller, set 5 years after the events in the first book, 13-year-old Jennifer Taylor and her father Jack have been living a quiet life, no longer haunted by visions of the ghostly Amanda. However, after a series of brutal child killings begins in a small Texas town, the ghostly visions begin again. Jennifer, unable to understand how these visions relate to what she went through five years ago, convinces her father to take her on a road trip to Texas to find out. On the way, she will learn that her powers go far beyond her psychic abilities.
