mount vesuvius has been famous ever since its eruption in 79 ce when it destroyed and buried the roman cities of pompeii and herculaneum but less well known is the role it played in the science and culture of early modern italy as sean cocco reveals in this ambitious and wide ranging study humanists began to make pilgrimages to vesuvius during the early renaissance to experience its beauty and study its history but a new tradition of observation emerged in 1631 with the first great eruption of the modern period seeking to understand the volcano s place in the larger system of nature neapolitans flocked to vesuvius to examine volcanic phenomena and to collect floral and mineral specimens from the mountainside in watching vesuvius cocco argues that this investigation and engagement with vesuvius was paramount to the development of modern volcanology he then situates the native experience of vesuvius in a larger intellectual cultural and political context and explains how later eighteenth century representations of naples of its climate and character grew out of this tradition of natural history painting a rich and detailed portrait of vesuvius and those living in its shadow cocco returns the historic volcano to its place in a broader european culture of science travel and appreciation of the natural world the main theme of my book is that the afterlife is real and substantial and that all of us when we arrive there at some point will soon realize this our spiritual bodies are very much like our natural bodies except that the spiritual bodies are in perfect shape life in the afterlife is at least superficially very much like life on earth people in the spiritual world live in real places beautiful cities or country locations in heaven and noisome slums in hell people there work as they do on earth willingly and joyously in heaven not so in hell they also enjoy time off from work which is marvelous in heaven and within strict limits somewhat enjoyable in hell we are full human beings in the afterlife up to and including that dreaded word for most religions sex but in the spiritual world time and space function differently being fluid and connected to our thoughts and emotions deception is nearly impossible and the economy is a moneyless one
