popularizing the past tells the stories of five postwar historians who changed the way ordinary americans thought about their nation s history what s the matter with history for decades critics of the discipline have argued that the historical profession is dominated by scholars unable or perhaps even unwilling to write for the public in popularizing the past nick witham challenges this interpretation by telling the stories of five historians richard hofstadter daniel boorstin john hope franklin howard zinn and gerda lerner who in the decades after world war ii published widely read books of national history witham compellingly argues that we should understand historians efforts to engage with the reading public as a vital part of their postwar identity and mission he shows how the lives and writings of these five authors were fundamentally shaped by their desire to write histories that captivated both scholars and the elusive general reader he also reveals how these authors efforts could not have succeeded without a publishing industry and a reading public hungry to engage with the cutting edge ideas then emerging from american universities as witham s book makes clear before we can properly understand the heated controversies about american history so prominent in today s political culture we must first understand the postwar effort to popularize the past beginning with the year 1492 the date of the first voyage of columbus necessarily leaves a great part of american history untold every nation s story begins in the middle back of leonidas are the homeric heroes romulus and remus antedate the tarquins so centuries before the clear glory of columbus we have tradition of various shadowy explorers whose strange barques visited our shores unless we grant the earliest inhabitants of america an autochthonic origin it seems most reasonable to suppose that they came from asia such authorities as humboldt bancroft and prescott declare it their opinion that the monuments the systems of cosmogony the methods of computing time etc all point to an ancient communication with eastern asia it is certain that from time immemorial constant intercourse has been kept up between the natives of either side of bering s strait and it is very probable that the original immigrants came that way there are other possible routes the aleutian islands and polynesia are the two next favored by the authorities there is a distinct trace of japanese blood in many of the native tribes of the northwest coast and we have too many modern instances of japanese junks drifting upon the american coast after floating for months at the mercy of the pacific currents to doubt the possibility of prehistoric visits of these people what is known as the black stream or japan current runs northward past the eastern coast of the japanese islands then curves to the east and south passing the west coast of america and moving toward the sandwich islands this current it is said would carry a drifting vessel toward the american coast at the rate of ten miles a day the theory which supposes the people or at least the civilization of america to be of egyptian origin is based upon analogies existing between the architecture hieroglyphics and various customs of the two countries but even where these analogies bear the test of close examination they can scarcely be said to prove anything in western asia the phœnicians those bold voyagers and their children the carthaginians are given the honor of settling america the records of their travels show that they knew of a country lying far to the west in the writings of diodorus siculus is an elaborate account of a wonderful island in the atlantic ocean far beyond the pillars of hercules and many days journey from the coast of africa this happy land fertile of soil beautiful of scenery and perfect of climate was accidentally discovered by phœnician sailors whose barque was driven thither by contrary winds on their return they gave such glowing accounts of the new country that large colonies of tyrians left their native land to settle there this may have been america but is more likely to have been the canary islands many americans view today s problems in education as an unprecedented crisis brought on by contemporary social ills in learning from the past a group of distinguished educational historians and scholars of public policy reminds us that many of our current difficulties as well as recent reform efforts have important historical antecedents what can we learn they ask from nineteenth century efforts to promote early childhood education or debates in the 1920s about universal secondary education or the curriculum reforms of the 1950s reflecting a variety of intellectual and disciplinary orientations the contributors to this volume examine major changes in educational development and reform and consider how such changes have been implemented in the past they address questions of governance equity and multiculturalism curriculum standards school choice and a variety of other issues policy makers and other school reformers they conclude would do well to investigate the past in order to appreciate the implications of the present reform initiatives
