explored in the first major critical reading of italian american narrative literature in two decades fred l gardaphé presents an interpretive overview of italian american literary history examining works from the turn of the twentieth century to the present he develops a new perspective variously historical philosophical and cultural by which american writers of italian descent can be read increasing the discursive power of an ethnic literature that has received too little serious critical attention gardaphé draws on vico's concept of history as well as the work of gramsci to establish a culture specific approach to reading italian american literature he begins his historical reading with narratives informed by oral traditions primarily autobiography and autobiographical fiction written by immigrants from these earliest social realist narratives gardaphé traces the evolution of this literature through tales of the godfather and the mafia the reinvention of ethnicity in works by helen barolini tina derosa and carole maso the move beyond ethnicity in fiction by don delillo and gilbert sorrentino to the short fiction of mary caponegro which points to a new direction in
