Peril at Somner House 2010-10-26

Peril at Somner House is a gripping and complex novel by Daphne du Maurier. It tells the story of John and Jean, an Englishman and a Frenchman who meet in a provincial railway station. Their resemblance to each other is uncanny, and they spend the next few hours talking and drinking until John falls into a drunken stupor. It is his last carefree moment, for when he wakes, Jean has stolen his identity and disappeared. So the Englishman steps into the Frenchman's shoes and faces a variety of perplexing roles: as owner of a chateau, director of a failing business, head of a fractious family, and master of nothing. Gripping and complex, the novel is a masterful exploration of doubling and identity and of the dark side of the self. A dazzlingly clever and immensely entertaining novel. New York Times
