The U.S. Army/Marine Corps Counterinsurgency Field Manual 2007

when the u s military invaded iraq it lacked a common understanding of the problems inherent in counterinsurgency campaigns it had neither studied them nor developed doctrine and tactics to deal with them it is fair to say that in 2003 most army officers knew more about the u s civil war than they did about counterinsurgency the u s army marine corps counterinsurgency field manual was written to fill that void the result of unprecedented collaboration among top u s military experts scholars and practitioners in the field the manual espouses an approach to combat that emphasizes constant adaptation and learning the importance of decentralized decision making the need to understand local politics and customs and the key role of intelligence in winning the support of the population the manual also emphasizes the paradoxical and often counterintuitive nature of counterinsurgency operations sometimes the more you protect your forces the less secure you are sometimes the more force you use the less effective it is sometimes doing nothing is the best reaction a new introduction by sarah sewall director of the carr center for human rights policy at harvard s kennedy school of government places the manual in critical and historical perspective explaining the significance and potential impact of this revolutionary challenge to conventional u s military doctrine an attempt by our military to redefine itself in the aftermath of 9 11 and the new world of international terrorism the u s army marine corps counterinsurgency field manual will play a vital role in american military campaigns for years to come

M14 M1A Technical Manual 2014-12-04 the 155 mm howitzer m1 was first produced in 1942 as a medium artillery piece it saw service with the us army during world war ii the korean war and the vietnam war before being replaced by the m198 howitzer the gun was used by the armed forces of many nations and in some countries it still remains in service the 155 mm howitzer was developed as an afterthought a new carriage was under development for much of the 1930s for the existing world war i era m1918 until 1939 when it was realized that it did not seem logical to put a new carriage underneath an obsolete howitzer consequently development began anew with a carriage designed to be used for the 155 mm howitzer this was completed by may 15th 1941 when the howitzer m1 on the carriage m1 was standardized the howitzer itself differed from the older model by a lengthened barrel of twenty calibers and a new breech mechanism uniquely it was the sole slow cone interrupted screw mechanism to enter service after 1920 this meant that two separate movements were necessary to open the breech versus the single movement of the steep cone mechanism that simultaneously rotated and withdrew the breech created in 1948 this field manual reveals a great deal about the 155 mm howitzer m1 s design and capabilities intended as a manual for those in the service of the piece it details many aspects of the m1 s assembly maintenance and accessories originally labeled restricted this manual was declassified long ago and is here reprinted in book form care has been taken to preserve the integrity of the text the tactics field manual fm 3 90 introduces the basic concepts and control measures associated with the art of tactics fm 3 90 focuses on the tactics used to employ available means to win in combat those tactics require judgment in application the ability to seize and secure terrain with its populations and productive capacity distinguishes land forces conducting decisive offensive and defensive operations fm 3 90 provides a common discussion of how commanders from the battalion task force level through the corps echelon conduct tactical offensive and defensive operations and their supporting tactical enabling operations it is not prescriptive but authoritative tactical fundamentals do not change with the fielding of each new piece of equipment however the integration of new equipment and organizations usually requires changes in related techniques and procedures fm 3 90 provides guidance in the form of combat tested concepts and ideas modified to exploit emerging army and joint capabilities doctrine provides a military organization with a common philosophy a language a purpose and unity of effort tactics is the art and science of employing all available means to win battles and engagements specifically it comprises the actions taken by a commander to arrange units and activities in relation to each other and the
