forming a critical introduction to the history of women's autobiography from the mid 18th century to the present this book analyses the most important changes in women's autobiography exploring their motivation context style and the role of life experiences. Caine effortlessly segues across three centuries of history from the emergence of the modern autobiography in the 18th century which laid bare the scandalous lives of fallen women to the literary and suffragist autobiographies of the 19th century to the establishment of feminist publishers in the 20th century and the taboo shattering autobiographies they produced the result is a much needed history one which provides a different way of thinking about the trajectory of genre. Information Caine's compelling study fills an important gap in the genre of autobiography by embracing a wide range of women and offering an extensive discussion of the autobiographies of women across the 19th and 20th centuries making it ideal for classroom use.
