It is important to read the user guide or instruction manual developed by the manufacturer to give a product description and other information regarding use and function of the product. One can choose to ignore the manual and attempt to by trial and error uncover how it functions, not only is that method time consuming but you run the risk of potentially damaging the product because of a lack of qualified information. Reading and understanding the source document is integral to avoid what in some cases can be detrimental to the product. There is no need to operate in ignorance when the requisite information is available. You disregard the manual to your own peril. The bible is the ultimate manual that deals with the creation of man and provides critical information regarding his purpose. Most things in genesis were created by the word of god he spoke and he saw. However, the crowning glory of his creation was made from previously existing raw materials.

forming man from the dust of the ground is the clearest indication that god chose to build the first man god built the first man the original prototype fully mature full functional and capable of managing his creation all that the original man needed to be he knew the man was not made like a robot but was given the power of choice he could therefore of his own volition choose to do the right thing he was built to last and to function in all is god ordained capacities the choice to disobey god put man into a tailspin and affected his ability to function as originally designed the product was damaged and in need of restoration which was to eventually come in the person of christ many male related issues are a consequence of the fall of man the depths of depravity and alienation from good may appear to be spiralling out of control but all is not lost this book is intended to look at the original manual or user guide and to provide pertinent information that when applied will ultimately lead to restoration the authors are well intentioned that instead of cursing the darkness we choose to light a candle to show the way build a man has moved from an initiative or concept to the genesis of what is expected to become a movement we stand on the shoulders of our predecessors who have continually sought to address this critical issue with surveying principles
