The War of the Rebellion 1882 the thesis of this study is that the continental artillery in the american revolution despite its ad hoc beginning and wartime challenges gradually developed into a professional organization by the end of the war rather than operational history of the organization its focus is on the growth of the organization over time in terms of its cultural beginnings its doctrinal development and the leadership and career paths of some of its middle ranking leaders the first chapter lays out the structural framework and statutory authorizations for the organization the second chapter describes its early cultural shift from its pre war legacy of provincialism to a trajectory toward professionalism this chapter uses a cultural analysis to argue that washington s decision to replace the aged richard gridley with henry knox as the commander of the continental artillery ushered in a cultural shift away from an older provincial organizational culture to one that sought professionalism the third chapter portrays the development of a battlefield tactical doctrine described in books that gradually took hold in informal ways it takes a comparative theory and practice approach to argue that the kernel of an emerging doctrine existed in available european books and from those kernels a consistent and effective doctrine developed over time the fourth chapter uses a collective biographical approach to show organizational development in the careers of its middle ranking leaders the concluding chapter summarizes findings and ties the professionalization of the corps of artillery to the military establishments of the new republic

The Life and Times of General Washington 1835 there are no paradoxes in time only looped back versions of history we call alternate realities under the sands of egypt and near the sphinx two amateur archeologists make a most unexpected find instead of a pharaohs tomb they uncover an ancient dust choked room filled with books computers and modern equipment the tomb is least five thousand years old slowly the young spelunkers unravel the mystery of the apparent paradox they also discover a working time machine time itself has taken an alternate course the powerful european trade confederation bullies a depressed non nuclear united states the british empire controls their colonial possessions with an iron fist time for the young discoverers is running out global events are slowly colliding where retaining the secret of their discovery is almost impossible a race develops to get the secrets of time travel out of the country
