Teaching American Studies

2021-08-17

what if american studies is defined not so much in the pages of the most cutting edge publications but through what happens in our classrooms and other learning spaces in teaching american studies elizabeth duclos orsello joseph entin and rebecca hill ask a diverse group of american studies educators to respond to that question by writing chapters about teaching that use a classroom activity or a particular course to reflect on the state of the field of american studies teaching american studies speaks to teachers with a wide range of relationships to the field to start it is a useful how to guide for faculty who might be new to or unfamiliar with american studies each author brings the reader into their classes to offer specific concrete details about their pedagogical practice and their students learning the resulting chapters connect theory and educational action as well as share challenges difficulties and lessons learned the volume also provides a collective impression of american studies from the point of view of students and teachers what primary and secondary texts and what theoretical challenges and issues do faculty use to organize their teaching how does the teaching we do respond to our institutional and educational contexts how do our experiences and those of our students challenge or change our understanding of american studies chapters in this collection discuss teaching a broad range of materials from memoirs and novels by anne moody and octavia butler to cutting edge cultural theory to the widely used collection keywords for american cultural studies but the chapters in this collection are also about dancing eating and walking around a campus to view statues and gravestones they are about teaching during the era of donald trump black lives matter and giving up authority in the classroom teaching american studies is both a new way to think about american studies and a timely collection of effective ways to teach about race gender sexuality and power in a moment of political polarization and intense public scrutiny of universities

Fast Fiction

2014-01-15

writers flock to national novel writing month nanowrimo each november because it provides a procrastination busting deadline but only a fraction of the participants meet their goal denise jaden was part of that fraction writing first drafts of two subsequently published novels in that tight time frame in fast fiction she shows other writers how to do what she did step by step writer to writer to ensure success her program begins a month before the month of drafting during this prep period writers think through plot theme characters setting etc then jaden provides day by day coaching for the thirty day drafting period after writers race to the finish they are not left high and dry jaden s after the draft revision tips allow writers to determine if a draft is not just workable but compelling so that they don t waste months or years developing it her camaraderie and skill allow jaden to both instruct and inspire

Why Indigenous Literatures Matter

part survey of the field of indigenous literary studies part cultural history and part literary polemic why indigenous literatures matter asserts the vital significance of literary expression to the political creative and intellectual efforts of indigenous peoples today in considering the connections between literature and lived experience this book contemplates four key questions at the heart of indigenous kinship traditions how do we learn to be human how do we become good relatives how do we become good ancestors how do we learn to live together blending personal narrative and broader historical and cultural analysis with close readings of key creative and critical texts justice argues that indigenous writers engage with these questions in part to challenge settler colonial policies and practices that have targeted indigenous connections to land history family and self more importantly indigenous writers imaginatively engage the many ways that communities and individuals have sought to nurture these relationships and project them into the future this provocative volume challenges readers to critically consider and rethink their assumptions about indigenous literature history and politics while never forgetting the emotional connections of our shared humanity and the power of story to effect personal and social change written with a generalist reader firmly in mind but addressing issues of interest to specialists in the field this book welcomes new audiences to indigenous literary studies while offering more seasoned readers a renewed appreciation for these transformative literary traditions
