Confessions of a Dying Thief 2017-07-12 recipient of the American Society of Criminology's 2006 Michael J. Hindelang Award for a book published within the past three calendar years that is the most outstanding contribution to research in criminology nominated for the 2007 Outstanding Book Award of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences Sam Goodman was a long-time thief, fence, and quasi-legitimate businessman. He had a criminal career that spanned fifty years, beginning in his mid-teens and ending with his death when he was in his mid-sixties. Confessions of a Dying Thief is an in-depth ethnographic study of Sam and his world based on continuous contact with him for many years, on multiple interviews with his network of associates in crime and business, and on a series of interviews with him shortly before he died. The book updates and greatly expands the case study of Sam Goodman's fencing activity found in Steffensmeier's award-winning 1986 book The Fence in the Shadow of Two Worlds. It combines Sam's colorful narrative accounts with substantive commentary by the authors to provide a more nuanced portrayal of criminal careers, illegal enterprise, and the broad landscape comprising the entity called crime. To more fully understand pathways into and out of crime, as well as the social organization of illegal enterprise, the authors propose an integrative learning opportunity commitment framework that combines differential association, social learning theory, and an extended conceptualization of criminal opportunity with a three-fold theory of commitment to crime. This framework offers an integrated and more complete way of understanding mechanisms that underlie criminal offending and criminal careers. It also recognizes the complexity and scope of the criminal landscape and its embeddedness in the fabric of the larger society, including its criminal justice system. Sam's illness and death are a sobering backdrop.

Born to be a Thief 2007-02 a road of the life takes young man through hell and heaven before he gets grip on the life itself but only thing that got him going was flame of true love a girl that he loved which is also a main character of the book two of them together fight their way through love, betrayal, death, prison, drugs, car races, mafia, government, and much more to happiness and harmony with little help of the family and friends life is a journey how would you live it Thief of Souls 2002-11-26 with her acclaimed novels The Plague Tales and The Burning Road, Ann Benson has carved out a unique place on the literary landscape with her fascinating alchemy of mystery, history, and psychological terror. Now this gifted storyteller returns with an astounding tale of two crime waves separated by nearly 600 years. In each, the victims are children; in each, the perpetrator is a man of power and renown; and in each, the pursuit of justice is spearheaded by a woman who has seen the face of evil up close and whose own life is entwined with a madman's. In the city of Nantes in the year 1440, a woman hurries through the cobblestoned streets, her world of faith, loyalty, and family buckling under the weight of her suspicions about a dead child and others who may have met the same fate, all at the hands of the same killer. The infamous Gilles de Rais soon Guillemette Le Drappière, companion to the Bishop of Nantes, is investigating the young nobleman she helped raise from infancy to unravel the truth. Guillemette must enter a dark realm of power, perversion, bloodlust, and bring to it the unforgiving light of the church she serves. In the city of Los Angeles in the year 2002, a detective gets the kind of call she dreads most: my child is gone. Lany Dunbar, a mother, a cop, and a veteran of human horrors, cannot be prepared for where this search will lead her. For within days, Lany is certain that this missing child case has exposed the work of a serial killer. At odds with her own department, sure that her killer is becoming more emboldened, Lany zeroes in on a suspect while a suspect zeroes in on her. Two horrific crime sprees, two extraordinary eras, the connections between them are at once eerie, compelling, and surprising. Only Ann Benson can weave together the strands of history and suspense with such mastery, skillfully blending past and present, myth and reality. Benson catapults us from an age when wolves ran wild through the streets of Paris to an age of high-tech criminal profiling, a riveting, rousing adventure through time, history, and forensic science. Thief of Souls introduces two unforgettable characters separated by centuries, linked by a passionate quest for justice. In a race to stop monsters from more monstrous crimes, both women will discover a frightening truth: that within a killer is a child, and within a child are seeds of both innocence and evil.

Confessions of A Dying Thief 2001-04 Jeff Stanky's career is dead. He's tossed out of his office by Gunny, an ex-marine security guard. His wife Sheila loves Atlanta, but Jeff can't stay after his Boston interview. Sheila is gone with their life savings, and her lover Blackballed in his field, he gives away his house and points his BMW toward Key West. He is car-jacked in Valdosta, Georgia, robbed, and beaten into temporary amnesia. Escaping the care of a gay Valdosta doctor, he does manual labor until his memory returns. He continues south to Orlando. He meets Joshua, a zealot hauling an eight-foot wooden cross to Elvis's grave, taking Joshua's trailer park handyman job. He romances the park's divorcee owner. Later, he rescues an elderly Greek woman from a mugger. He's adopted by the mafia-type Greek family, although fearing her three brothers, he falls in love with the virginal daughter. Sheila returns with a new lover to hunt down Jeff for more cash. Gunny learns that Jeff killed his brother. He attacks and rapes Sheila. She plans revenge on Gunny and hunts down Jeff. Gunny follows, feeling Jeff must die. Blood will flow. Jeff would run, but learns he is soon to be a father.
