Cuyahoga County Local Government Budget Survey 1937

community budgets are demonstrating their potential to deliver cheaper more integrated and more effective public services they are at risk however of being replaced after a few years if key issues are not resolved if this opportunity is missed the committee warns that local services could come under unsustainable pressure in the face of increased demand and reduced budgets this in turn may result in more spending later on judicial and emergency health and welfare interventions the government should send a clear message that it will assist every local authority wishing to introduce community budgets and to set out the specific assistance it will provide them with furthermore the programme of pilots must not be allowed to slow progress towards wider implementation if they are to succeed public service providers and local authorities must realise investment in community budgets will bring them benefits local authorities their partners and central government should therefore develop a framework for agreements on how the benefits of investment are to be shared on the troubled families programme the committee is supportive of the work being done but highlights the need for greater focus on how work with these families will continue after the programme ends in 2016 noting that the resources available have not increased in proportion to the number of families added to the programme in june dclg needs to monitor carefully progress and provide more resources to local authorities if necessary

kentucky s counties though theoretically provinces of the state were in reality powerful semi sovereign entities during the latter half of the 19th century their positive accomplishments were many government funds were wisely invested in internal improvements road construction law enforcement tax collection and relief of the poor keen competition for county offices placed on an electoral basis by the constitution of 1850 brought added vitality to kentucky s uniquely intense political life and the official day on which the county courts met continued to be the foremost social and economic day of the month despite these positive facets and the good intentions of the reformers of 1849 1850 however kentucky s counties retained a tradition of parochialism corruption and inefficiency the establishment of elective offices eliminated few of the deficiencies of the county system the railroads were the focus of rivalry and scandal prevailing lawlessness compounded the semi anarchical condition of many of the counties rising crime rates rendered insecure the lives of many kentuckians nineteenth century kentucky left no legacy of law and order a grasp of this paradoxical situation is essential to an understanding of late 19th century kentucky history in this probing study robert m ireland offers the first thorough examination of the impact of kentucky s counties on the state s constitutional political social and economic development during this period
