today baseball fans will love hearing zim s positions on such things as pitching inside managing bosses and more with more than fifty six years in baseball don zimmer had seen it all or so he thought before he ran into george steinbrenner here zimmer provides a revealing account of his eight years as joe torre s right hand man and the jealousy vindictiveness and pettiness that ultimately destroyed a twenty five year friendship with steinbrenner zim will also discuss the circumstances that led to his charging onto the field at fenway park and throwing a haymaker at boston red sox pitcher pedro martinez he ll share with readers what it was like to work for other baseball owners shed new light on general managers like branch rickey and dan duquette and critique the managing styles of some of the most famous and notorious skippers of the twentieth century from casey stengel and earl weaver to gene mauch and billy martin in a chapter called what have they done to my game zim will offer a crash course in baseball anthropology describing how the game and its players have changed over the past fifty years and showing how big money and free agency have destroyed clubhouse camaraderie and turned a team sport into a transient game in contrast he celebrates his close knit teammates on the 1955 brooklyn dodgers team and the lifelong friendships that were made zim has seen it all and here readers learn even more of his life and dreams and of baseball through a half century of experience it is a story jam packed with laughs and anecdotes with excitement and comedy and it is superbly told in many parts of the world the white man is perceived to be an instigator of globalization and an embodiment of modernity however so far anthropologists have paid little attention to the actual heterogeneity and complexity of whiteness in specific ethnographic contexts this study examines cultural perceptions of other and self as expressed in cargo cults and masked dances in papua new guinea indigenous terms images and concepts are being contrasted with their western counterparts the latter partly deriving from the publications and field notes of charles valentine after having done his first fieldwork more than fifty years ago this anthropological ancestor has now become part of the local tradition and has thus turned into a kind of mythical figure based on anthropological fieldwork as well as on archival studies this book addresses the relation between western and indigenous perceptions of self and other between tradition and modernity and between anthropological ancestors and descendants in this way the work contributes to the study of whiteness cargo cults and masked dances in papua new guinea andrews collins gobekli tepe the cosmic connection on astonishing new findings
