civilization and war addresses a concern of all thinking persons in elegant language with erudition to match bowden s readers will profit by stretching their minds learn much to mull over and discuss with their friends william h mcneill university of chicago us a lucid wide ranging and fascinating discussion of how civilization has given rise to ideals of peace and progress and is perhaps inescapably prone to technologically advanced destructive warfare andrew linklater aberystwyth university uk following his award winning the empire of civilization brett bowden s civilization and war is a much needed corrective to kantian hopes for cosmopolitan governance short as it may be this is an eminently readable book that rightfully poses uncomfortable questions with regard to the inextricable link between civilization and barbarism it is also a reminder however to political realists to take the ethical questions of armed conflict more seriously such violence is overcome less by normative moral frameworks than by the actual practices of migration and cooperation as much as by exchanges of goods and ideas christian emden rice university us civilization and war were born around the same time in roughly the same place they have effectively grown up together this challenges the belief that the more civilized we become the less likely the resort to war in order to resolve differences and disputes the related assumption that civilized societies are more likely to abide by the rules of war is also in dispute where does terrorism fit into debates about civilized and savage war what are we to make of talk about an impending clash of civilizations in a succinct yet wide ranging survey of history and of ideas that calls in to question a number of conventional wisdoms civilization and war explores these issues and more whilst outlining the two way relationship between civilization and war providing an alternative perspective to conventional thinking this book will appeal to a wide interdisciplinary audience across all regions of the globe the material is both original and highly topical and is written in a sharp snappy style that makes it accessible to a wide readership including upper level undergraduates postgraduates academic specialists and informed general readers civilization and war makes important contributions to the fields of international relations peace and conflict studies political theory and the history of ideas and will be of interest to people with a curiosity about world history and current affairs medieval islamic civilization examines the socio cultural history of the regions where islam took hold between the seventh and sixteenth century this important two volume work contains over 700 alphabetically arranged entries contributed and signed by international scholars and experts in fields such as arabic languages arabic literature architecture art history history history of science islamic arts islamic studies middle eastern studies near eastern studies politics religion semitic studies theology and more this reference provides an exhaustive and vivid portrait of islamic civilization including the many scientific artistic and religious developments as well as all aspects of daily life and culture for a full list of entries contributors and more visit routledge ny com middleages islamic featuring the one author one voice approach this text is ideal for instructors who do not wish to neglect the importance of non western perspectives on the study of the past the book is a brief affordable presentation providing a coherent examination of the past from ancient times to the present religion everyday life and transforming moments are the three themes employed to help make the past interesting intelligible and relevant to contemporary society the continent of atlantis and mu land the earliest civilization that disappeared by the great flood has never been found according to my paper presented at an international academic conference in early september 2005 mega tsunami in northeastern taiwan at least 12 000 years ago just to find out the earliest civilization lost by mankind it can be inferred from ancient cultural relics that these two are one taiwan island another 6 000 years ago the explosion volcano of the seven star mountain in taipei lasted for several years causing taiwan s ancestors to flee and spread to the islands of the pacific and indian oceans forming a vast territory of the austronesian language family color version 18k 416 pages 420 pictures these original contributions to the study of medieval literature and civilization in britain and scandinavia are published as a memorial to norman garmonsway chair of english at king s college university of london who died in 1967 the aim has been to offer to the public a book of essays which have a direct bearing upon his central academic interests and which is thus structured in some measure after his mind he saw the study of the language and literature together with the history and archaeology of early britain and scandinavia as forming a single coherent discipline and this conception of unity in diversity can be glimpsed both in the range of matters which he chose to write upon and in many of his individual pieces these essays will also appeal to the interested non specialist reflecting the fact that norman garmonsway was despite his erudition the very antithesis of the remote and secluded scholar since the publication of the first shanghai ranking in 2003 the international rankings of universities have become evermore important this book examines the evolution of higher education systems and the role of universities in contemporary societies which are marked by increased competition and tensions investigating whether the dynamism of large universities is an accurate indicator of the intellectual life of their civilizations universities and civilizations systematically analyzes the evolution of universities in several main rankings from their creation until now this analysis shows the rise of universities in china and parts of europe the decline of american and japanese universities and the scant presence of universities in russia india africa and latin america this book suggests an overhaul of traditional models of academic cooperation and exchange in an era of growing international tensions and a time when people and knowledge are increasingly mobile islamic civilization flourished in the middle ages across a vast geographical area that spans today s middle and near east first published in 2006 medieval islamic civilization examines the socio cultural history of the regions where islam took hold between the 7th and 16th centuries this important two volume work contains over 700 alphabetically arranged entries contributed and signed by international scholars and experts in fields such as arabic languages arabic literature architecture history of science islamic arts islamic studies middle eastern studies near eastern studies politics religion semitic studies theology and more entries also explore the importance of interfaith relations and the permeation of persons ideas and objects across geographical and intellectual boundaries between europe and the islamic world this reference work provides an exhaustive and vivid portrait of islamic civilization and brings together in book contributes to filling this gap by theoretically linking the study of the historical development of social perceptions about nature and climate change with the figurational sociology of norbert elias and the study of moral panics by focusing sociological theory on climate change this book situates the issue within the broader context of the development of ecological civilizing processes and comes to conceive of contemporary campaigns surrounding climate change as instances of moral panics civilizing offensives with both civilizing and decivilizing effects in the process the author not only proposes a new approach to moral panics research but makes a fundamental contribution to the development of figuration sociology and the understanding of how climate change has developed as a social problem with significant implications regarding how to improve the efficacy of climate change campaigns this highly innovative study should be of interest to students and researchers working in the fields of sociology environment and sustainability media studies and political science by examining in detail the material life of pre industrial peoples around the world fernand braudel significantly changed the way historians view their subject originally published in the early 1980s civilization traces the social and economic history of the world from the middle ages to the industrial revolution although his primary focus is europe braudel skims over politics wars etc in favor of examining life at the grass roots food drink clothing housing town markets money credit technology the growth of towns and cities and more volume i describes food and drink dress and housing demography and family structure energy and technology money and credit and the growth of towns a collection of essays by social theorists historical sociologists and area specialists in classical biblical and asian studies the contributions deal with cultural transformations in major civilizational centres during the axial age the middle centuries of the last millennium bce and their long term consequences the essays collected in this volume represent many years of professor nauert s research and teaching on the history of renaissance humanism and more particularly on humanism north of the alps much of the early work involved the significant but often overlooked history of humanism at the university of cologne notoriously the most anti humanist of the german universities later essays deal with the most famous humanist of the early sixteenth century erasmus of rotterdam and natural philosophy a broad term covering many subjects now associated with natural science is the topic of three of the pieces published here taken as a whole the book presents a detailed study of intellectual development among european elites world religions religious foundations of western civilization introduces students to the major western world religions judaism christianity and islam their beliefs key concepts history as well as the fundamental role they have played and continue to play in western culture contributors include jacob neusner alan j avery peck bruce d chilton th emil homerin jon d levenson william scott green seymour feldman elliot r wolfson james a brundage olivia remie constable and amila buturovic this book provides a superb source of information for scientists and scholars from all disciplines who are trying to understand religion in the context of human cultural evolution david sloan wilson professor departments of biology and anthropology binghamton university these original contributions to the study of medieval literature and civilization in britain and scandinavia are published as a memorial to norman garmonsway chair of english at king s college university of london who died in 1967 the aim has been to offer to the public a book of essays which have a direct bearing upon his central academic interests and which is thus structured in some measure after his mind he saw the study of the language and literature together with the history and archaeology of early britain and scandinavia as forming a single coherent discipline and this conception of unity in diversity can be glimpsed both in the range of matters which he chose to write upon and in many of his individual pieces these essays will also appeal to the interested non specialist reflecting the fact that norman garmonsway was despite his erudition the very antithesis of the remote and secluded scholar

how have major civilizations of the last two millennia treated people who were attracted to their own sex in a narrative tour de force louis crompton chronicles the lives and achievements of homosexual men and women alongside a darker history of persecution as he compares the christian west with the cultures of ancient greece and rome arab spain imperial china and pre meiji japan ancient greek culture celebrated same sex love in history literature and art making high claims for its moral influence by contrast jewish religious leaders in the sixth century b c e branded male homosexuality as a capital offense and later blamed it for the destruction of the biblical city of sodom when these two traditions collided in christian rome during the late empire the tragic repercussions were felt throughout europe and the new world louis crompton traces church inspired mutilation torture and burning of sodomites in sixth century byzantium medieval france renaissance italy and in spain under the inquisition but protestant authorities were equally committed to the execution of homosexuals in the netherlands calvin s geneva and georgian england the root cause was religious superstition abetted by political ambition and sheer greed yet from this cauldron of fears and desires homoerotic themes surfaced in the art of the renaissance masters donatello leonardo michelangelo sodoma cellini and caravaggio often intertwined with christian motifs homosexuality also flourished in the court intrigues of henry iii of france queen christina of sweden james i and william iii of england queen anne and frederick the great anti homosexual atrocities committed in the west contrast starkly with the more tolerant traditions of pre modern china and japan as revealed in poetry fiction and art and in the lives of emperors shoguns buddhist priests scholars and actors in the samurai tradition of japan crompton makes clear the celebration of same sex love rivaled that of ancient greece sweeping in scope elegantly crafted and lavishly illustrated homosexuality and civilization is a stunning exploration of a rich and terrible past
